Let Them Dance
A Hohenzollern Learns Freedom—When FIT Quite a Spot
—By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Psychologists and psychiatrists have joined clergymen, denouncing modern dancing and "jazz" music. "Devil music" they call it. It is worse than that, it is ugly music.

But there is nothing dangerous in dancing. There are two kinds of excitement, physical and mental. Mental excitement is for a few, others must have physical excitement. It is good, for part of physical excitement mental activity grew gradually through a million centuries.

When Newton had almost finished his long calculations, demonstrating the truth of his law of gravitation, he became so excited he could not continue, and let somebody else finish the work. That is better than a "jazz dance," but not everybody can be Newton.

William Hohenzollern, once Kaiser, saw the Shackleton South Pole moving pictures. At the farthest point south on the globe the picture showed the British flag hoisted as the band played "God Save the King."

The ex-Kaiser stood up with the others, showing that, unlike the Bourbons, a Hohenzollern CAN learn something. William of Hohenzollern has learned that it was a mistake to get into a fight with his cousin George.

Not that George is personally much of a fighter, but had many resources and at least one real statesman.

"England gives Egypt freedom," Schwab, when he watched the little dog chasing the express train, wondered what the dog would do with it if he caught it.

What will Egypt do with freedom, assuming that she is to get it?

It is one thing to have freedom, another to know how to use it. Establish self-government in the zoological garden, open the cages and see what happens.

Bryce's last book on modern democracy makes it clear that the world's problem is not so much giving freedom to various people, as making people FIT for freedom. Considerably more than a thousand million human beings on earth are not fit for it yet.

A new group of spots on the sun, about two hundred and fifty thousand miles long. If you could drop this earth into that giant sun spot, it would melt like a flake of snow falling on a hot stove. If it didn't melt, it would look about as big as a pigeon's egg floating in a wash tub full of soap suds.

Everything that we have we get from the sun—heat, force, light, color, motion, crop life—and we know as much about it as a puppy asleep under a radiator knows about steam heat.

The value of English money goes up again, breaking its record. It has almost reached par in spite of billions spent and lent by England in war. The dollar of our Canadian friends is about as good as our own. It should puzzle no one.

Great Britain has statesmen at work. Arthur Balfour, past seventy, comes here, gets exactly what he wants in the smoothiest possible way, goes back and refuses a dukedom, saying he prefers his own name. Well he may, it is better than that of any living duke, the name of a great servant of his country.

Too bad we haven't a few like him and Lloyd George, that know how to construct and reconstruct.

The first stamps of the Irish State appear. The face on them is that of King George, the wording Gaelic, an interesting compromise.

The effort to restore the Gaelic language is a process to watch. Languages have been changing ever since speech began, and no nation has gone back to an old tongue having once abandoned it.

What we call English is made up of Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, French, Saxon and other languages. The people kept and used words they liked best, dropped the others. Even the ancient Hebrew as used today is well mixed. The great Maimonides, in translating Aristotle's philosophical works, transplanted many Greek words into Hebrew. The orthodox Spanish synagogue excommunicated him for that, but it doesn't seem to have hurt his reputation.

Leaving the bench Tuesday "with a sigh for those that love me and a smile for those that hate," Judge Landis fined one man who had "tried to do right," one cent, and his partner, who had "refused to do right," he fined $5,000. Justice is as much a matter of common sense and kindness as it is of stern law.

Japanese work always and efficiently. You know they have established such huge colonies in Southern Brazil as to frighten the Brazilian government. The latest great Japanese fishing concessions in the Gulf of California by the Mexican government will bring many Japanese across the Pacific.

Mr. Kondo, Japanese owner, says he will become a Mexican, and he may. But he will REMAIN a Jap.

Mary Pickford Is Not a Liar

WINS SUIT BROUGHT BY AGENT

Jury Holds Picture Actress Need Not Pay $108,000 Commission

New York, March 2.—Mary Pickford's word is good.

This was finally and conclusively settled by the verdict which a jury in the Federal Court returned at the conclusion of a suit for $108,000, brought against the famous actress by Mrs. Flora C. Wilkenning, who claimed that as her commission for securing a contract for Miss Pickford.

Just before giving the case to the jury Judge Mack remarked that the issue in the cases seemed to be the veracity of the complainant and the defendant.

One of the two, said the judge, had apparently deliberately lied, and he left it to the jury to decide which one was guilty of falsehood.

The jury returned a sealed verdict. When it was opened today it was discovered that they had decided in favor of Mary.

"I am very happy," said the star.

"It was not the money I cared about, but the principle of the thing. Now I can go back to work with this one worry at least off my mind. I am happy that the jury believed my word and rendered justice."

Mrs. Wilkening's attorneys gave notice of appeal.

The plaintiff claimed she secured for Miss Pickford a $10,000-a-week contract with Adolph Zukor, on which she was to receive a commission that would amount to $108,000. Mary, on the other hand, asserted that Mrs. Wilkenning had nothing whatever to do with the contract.

"One of the other of these two parties has deliberately lied," said Judge Mack.

And the jury believed Mary Pickford.

HAYS FACES CONTEMPT OF COURT PROCEEDINGS

Washington, March 2.—Will H. Hays, the outgoing Postmaster-General, was cited today by Justice Hitz in District Supreme Court to show cause by March 10, why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for failure to exhibit certain affidavits in his possession to a notary public.

R. I. MILL WORKER BEATEN; MAN HELD

Providence, March 2.—Arthur Rathbun, mill employe, was badly beaten today as he was leaving the Hope Mill in Hope during lunch hour. At the mill gates, police said, pickets swarmed upon him. The officers drove away his assailants and arrested Angelo Pascore charged with assault.

10 MORE INDICTED IN BUCKETING

New York, March 2.—Ten more persons were indicted here today on charges of bucketing orders for stocks.

HUNDREDS WITNESS STABBING

Assailant Escapes in Subway Crowd After Slashing West Roxbury Man

While several hundred terrified commuters gazed helplessly on, a man believed to be Edward Johnson of No. 73 Huntington avenue, West Roxbury, whipped out a knife and stabbed Peter Bagner of the same address in the crowded Washington street station of the Cambridge subway during today's rush hour.

When Bagner, slashed through the left leg, finally collapsed on the floor Johnson, still brandishing the knife, forced his way through the crowd and escaped.

Some of the panic-stricken spectators said they saw him enter a Cambridge-bound car and lose himself in the throng of passengers who were boarding or leaving the cars. Others had an idea that he slipped away to the street.

With the aid of passengers and station employes, Bagner was picked up, placed on an inbound train and rushed to the Relief Station. Though weakened considerably from the loss of blood, he remained conscious all the way.

The battle between the two men threw the crowded station into a momentary panic. Women screamed in horror and many made a rush for the exits. A number of men started toward the belligerents, but recoiled when they saw the gleaming knife in Johnson's hand.

As they swayed back and forth amid the awed throng, Johnson first tried to slash the knife across his rival's throat. Bagner avoided this move by superhuman effort. The men finally clinched and went sagging to the ground. As they fell, Johnson, with a sudden sweep of the hand, plunged the weapon deep into Bagner's leg.

With a groan, Bagner released his grip and half-swooned. Johnson then leaped to his feet, waved the knife menacingly at the crowd and made his getaway.

At the hospital Bagner refused to talk of the encounter or tell what started it. His condition is not serious.

SNOW STORM GENERAL OVER NEW ENGLAND

The snow storm that swept practically all of New England most of today will be followed by fair weather, with rising temperatures tomorrow, says the Weather Man. Today's storm was central off New Jersey, where a heavy snowfall was recorded. In Southern New England the storm was a mixture of snow and rain. Snow fell as far north as the St. Lawrence Valley.

Dog Fancier Zimmer Dies

Gloversville, N. Y., March 2.—Francis B. Zimmer, sixty-nine years old, nationally known dog fancier and breeder of Beagle hounds, is dead here. He was also known as a contributor to dog fancier publications under the cognomen of "Gim."

MEETING TO PUSH BONUS

Gathering on Sunday to Protest Delay Is Endorsed by Service Men

A big meeting will be conducted in Faneuil Hall next Sunday afternoon, at the suggestion of the Boston American, to protest against the delay of Congress in passing the adjusted compensation act for the benefit of ex-service men and women, commonly known as the bonus bill.

The big mass meeting will be called to order at 3 p. m. and will be addressed by many professional Boston men and women who will tell why, in their opinion, Congress should "get down to brass tacks" and pass the five-fold plan suggested by the American Legion, with a sales tax to pay for it, as urged by President Harding, Senators Lodge and Walsh and others.

Historic Faneuil Hall, where many ringing patriotic speeches have been heard, will be suitably decorated with the national colors and stirring music will be furnished by a band. In addition there will be a fine program of songs by leading soloists.

ENDORSED BY VETERANS.

This protest meeting is endorsed by officials of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and many other patriotic societies, all of which will have representatives present.

In addition, Leo A. Spillane, State adjutant of the legion, sent a special bulletin to all local posts throughout Massachusetts urging them to hold similar meetings of protest in their headquarters at the same hour next Sunday and forward notices of whatever action is taken to the Massachusetts Representatives in Congress. A similar bulletin was issued by John McDonald, State commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Invitations have been extended to United States Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and David I. Walsh and a number of Massachusetts Congressmen to address the Faneuil Hall meeting.

Mayor James M. Curley has rearranged his schedule of appointments for that day so that he may be present and lend his eloquent advocacy to the protest meeting.

Thousands of signatures have been obtained to the petition being circulated by the Boston American demanding that Congress get down to action on the adjusted compensation act. Ninety-nine of every hundred persons approached by ex-service men circulating the petition gladly have signed it. "It's time Congress stopped talking and did something," was the comment of hundreds who signed.

Men and women in stores, offices, factories, clubs, restaurants and other places where people gather signed the petitions without asking any questions.

MAYOR TO URGE FAIR FREIGHT RATES

Curley to Make Personal Plea to Interstate Board to Abolish Differentials

Mayor Curley tomorrow will make a personal plea for speedy action on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of wiping out the freight differentials that now operate against this port in the routing of outbound freight.

The Mayor will leave Boston tonight for Washington. He will have a personal conference with Senator Henry Cabot Lodge tomorrow morning, in order that he may lay before him the imperative need of the Port of Boston for a correction of the existing differential rates.

The Mayor has already declared that the present system now in vogue on the New England railroads is designed to commence and should be a matter of justice be abolished immediately.

Commenting on his plans the Mayor said: "I am confident that as soon as the Interstate Commerce Commission realizes the certain results in reviving the business of this port, with its consequent amelioration of the unemployment situation, they will act with reasonable promptness. Moreover their decision will be in harmony with the expressed purpose of President Harding's recent message on maritime affairs and his keen interest in shipping."

LADY RHONDDA GIVEN SEAT IN LORDS

First Woman Admitted to Upper House of British Parliament

London, March 2 (By the Associated Press).—The petition of Lady Rhondda to sit in the House of Lords was granted by the Committee on Privileges of the House of Lords today.

She will be the first woman to sit in the upper house of the British Parliament, as Lady Astor was in the lower chamber.

Today's decision, it is presumed, affects all the twenty-three peeresses in their own right in the United Kingdom.

Lady Rhondda is the daughter of the late Viscount Rhondda. Great Britain's war-time food controller, who died in 1918 from an illness brought on by overwork. He left no male heir.

Lord Donoughmore presided over the committee, composed of Lords Desart, Haldane, Cheltmsford, Hylton, Wrenbury, Phillimore and Ashwith. Lady Rhondda expressed her delight that the case had gone in her favor.

PLUMMER CAUGHT IN DUNSTER HALL

Charged With Breaking Into Room of Wealthy Student on Gold Coast

Howard Plummer, thirty years old, of St. Botolph street, Boston, son of Dr. Frederick R. Plummer, Chelsea physician, who recently committed suicide while awaiting trial in an illegal surgery case, was arrested in Dunster Hall, exclusive Harvard College dormitory, today, charged with breaking and entering the room of a wealthy student.

In his arrest the Cambridge police believe they have solved a long series of recent robberies along the Harvard "Gold Coast."

Plummer was captured while prowling around a corridor of the dormitory just before dawn. He was taken into custody by Special Officer George McClellan of the college police force and turned over to the Cambridge police.

He was specifically charged with breaking into the room of Richard L. Thompson, a wealthy student and member of the Harvard rifle team, and stealing a gold watch, $20 in cash and a gold bullet, a rifle team trophy.

According to the police, the loot was found in Plummer's overcoat pocket.

HELD IN $3,000.

He was later arraigned in the Cambridge Court before Judge Stone. He pleaded not guilty and was held in

CAUGHT IN DORMITORY CORRIDOR

$2,000 bonds for trial March 13. Meantime the police will investigate his past movements in an effort to connect him with the long chain of college breaks that have been mystifying college and police authorities.

When arrested Plummer wore a tailor-made suit, latest model overcoat and a new soft felt hat. He is a powerfully built man, standing six feet tall. He sports a nifty little mustache, and is said to have often passed himself off around Cambridge as a university student.

Young Plummer was acquainted with many of the wealthier students and is said to have often been a guest in their rooms.

As a result of many recent thefts in the exclusive dormitories the police have been keeping a close watch of them the past fortnight. The college police also have been ordered to exercise extra vigilance in their rounds.

OFFERED NO RESISTANCE.

Special Officer McClellan had made one tour of Dunster Hall today, but in keeping with recent orders decided to make a second tour. It was while on this that he accosted Plummer in the building.

Plummer offered no resistance when taken into custody.

The total amount of loot taken from college rooms during the recent epidemic of breaks is placed at several hundred dollars. The robberies have completely baffled efforts of the police.

Plummer is said to have lived in North Cambridge until a short time ago.

Taunton Man Stops to Help, Recovers Own Stolen Truck

Taunton, March 2.—Joseph Hemmenway of Hemmenway Brothers, wholesale grocers, pulled up beside a stalled truck at Hart's Corners today to offer help.

"What's the trouble?" he asked.

"Outer gas," said the driver. "I'll 'phone for some," replied Hemmenway.

He left his machine and started for a telephone. Then he looked back. There was something familiar about the big truck. He looked again. Then he telephoned.

Five minutes later police arrested Joseph Meakin, the driver, and held him for larceny. The car was valued at $7,000 and groceries in it at $6,000. It was Hemmenway's machine, which had been stolen from a New Bedford garage at 4 a. m.

Washington, March 2.—The row between Congress and the Navy Department over funds reached a climax today. HELD BY POLICE JUDGE FOR U. S. COURT

First Time in History That State Official Invokes Power of Volstead Act

For the first time in the history of the United States, according to legal observers, a defendant charged with violating a Federal statute not covered by State or city laws was ordered held for the Federal Court by a police court justice today.

This ruling, which gives the police power to make arrests under the Volstead act, will prove of the utmost importance to Federal prohibition authorities, if it is upheld by the higher courts.

Judge Arthur P. Stone of East Cambridge Court made the momentous decision. He took his action in the case of David Goulis, whose home on Windsor street, East Cambridge, was raided February 2, with a seizure of twenty-five gallons of alcohol.

Captain Timothy C. Leahy of the East Cambridge station, immediately after the raid, brought against Goulis the only charge which police authorities have thus far been able to bring against liquor law violators—that of keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor for sale. Goulis was found not guilty and the alcohol was ordered returned.

Then Captain Leahy decided to take a chance. He promptly rearrested Goulis on a charge of violating the Volstead act—a charge which local police have never before lodged against anyone—and summoned him again into court.

Judge Stone, after hearing the evidence, overruled a motion made by defense counsel to dismiss the charge on the ground that the police court has no jurisdiction, and ordered Goulis held in $500 for the United States District Court. At the same time he vacated the order providing for the return of the liquor and ordered it seized by Federal agents.

Attorney Harold Cassidy, legal adviser to the Federal enforcement men here, was present in the court room. He was jubilant over the decision and asserted it would mean much to the work of prohibition enforcement.

PUT IN CLOSET BY FATHER, SAYS GIRL

Testifies for Mother in Cross-Libel Divorce Action of the Hagen-Burgers

Testimony that Dr. Gottfried Hagen-Burger, Boylston street physician, threw a seventy-year-old gardener down a flight of stairs, beat his seventy-year-old aunt and sat his fourteen-year-old daughter in a dark closet on numerous occasions for three hour periods, was given today in Superior Court.

Occasion was the continuation of the hearing of cross-libels in the divorce action started by Mrs. Gertrude E. Hagen-Burger of Brookline against her physician husband. She charges cruel and abusive treatment.

In a cross-libel Dr. Hagen-Burger makes a similar charge against her.

When Chandler Hagen-Burger, eleven-year-old son of the couple, took the witness stand and told how his father had beaten him, Dr. Hagen-Burger hurriedly left the courtroom. The boy cried so he was excused from further testifying.

Barbara, four-year-old daughter, said her father had put her in a closet for talking with her brother before he left home for school.

"Father said I wakened him," she testified, "and told me to go in the closet and made me stay there for three hours."

Mrs. Elizabeth Sensacho, Dr. Hagen-Burger's daughter by a former wife, testified that he had tossed a Scotch gardener seventy years old down stairs because he said he was incompetent. She said he had once reached for a lamp to throw at her.

Mrs. Hagen-Burger denied she had ever instructed her children to call their father "a Hun" or that there were white slave agents after her. She declared that she did not love him and had made a mistake.

NAVY MEN IN PANIC OVER ECONOMY

Orders to Stop Fleet Operations Prepared; Appeal Made to the President

By International News Service.

Washington, March 2.—The waves of economy now rolling high in Congress have more nearly forced the American navy to haul down its flag than storm waves or a real enemy ever did. Something closely akin to panic existed in high naval quarters today over the slashing to which naval appropriations are being subjected at the hands of economy-bent Congressmen.

Orders have been prepared to stop fleet operations, according to naval officials, but they will not be issued until there is some clarification of the existing situation.

So perturbed is the navy that President Harding has again been appealed to and asked to lay a restraining hand on the Congressional supercos.

Continuation of this cutting policy, Secretary Denby told the President, threatens to put ships of the navy into their nearest ports, there to remain until Congress gets over its "economy fever" and appropriates funds to permit operations. President Harding, acting as mediator, delayed the navy when he asked Representative Madden, chairman of the appropriations committee, but there was no sign of capitulation today on the part of the appropriators.

Naval authorities said today they could not run a navy without money with which to buy oil and coal. Congressional leaders declared money enough had been provided. There the situation rested, with the navy's eyes on the White House and Congressional eyes on the Fall elections.

COULTHURST IS HELD IN HOTEL PAY LARCENY

Roger Coulthurst, Hotel Touraine bookkeeper, accused of fleeing with the $7,400 payroll, was arraigned in Municipal Court today and held in $5,000 bail for a hearing on March 9.

He was charged with larceny and pleaded not guilty.

His wife, Edith L. Coulthurst, was in the courtroom.

Coulthurst's companion in flight, Albert J. Walker, Touraine waiter, of Gainsborough street, Back Bay, was freed. He denied he knew the money in Coulthurst's possession was stolen.

Coulthurst was represented by Attorney Francis T. Leighton.

Immediately after his case had been disposed of, he paraded with a new automobile. We each got a suit of clothes, let the Worcester police look them away from us and drive us overnight."

Coulthurst disappeared with the Hotel Touraine payroll Tuesday. He was free only twenty-four hours before being caught at a Worcester hotel.

A trifle more than $7,000 in cash was found in a suit case in the room Coulthurst occupied.

LINDSAY WANTS RELEASE SO HE CAN PAY UP

By International News Service.

New York, March 2.—Alfred Lindsay, "Indian broker," who is alleged to have defrauded wealthy society women whom he interested in fraudulent stocks schemes of nearly a million dollars, today continued to languish as a forlorn figure in Tombs prison, while friends are trying to arrange for $50,000 bail.

It was suggested to Assistant District Attorney Murphy that his women victims let him out of jail so that he could make money to repay them.

"I can make money, but I can't do anything while I am in jail," pleaded Lindsay.

The society women dupes of the broker-lover refused a deaf ear to the plea and have not receded from their determination to prosecute him.

Miss Florence Jaques, one of Lindsay's victims, told the district attorney that Lindsay, in order to interest women friends of his in his market schemes, staged parties and supplied funds for the affairs. These women, Miss James declares, subsequently became his clients.

There's a Warm Home Awaiting 'Orphan of the Storm'

Frank Lafferty, twenty-eight, of No. 2530 Washington street, is absent without leave from the Psychopathic Hospital and the police are looking for him.

A few days ago Frank was sent there for thirty days' observation. Today he decided to become an orphan of the storm.

He rose early, while the rest of the ward was asleep, helped himself to some street clothes, dressed and stepped into the office.

A sleepy night clerk glanced up.

"Morning," said Frank.

"Morning," said the clerk, and again dozed off.

Half an hour later Frank was missed and the police notified.

MAYOR TAKES FREIGHT RATE FIGHT TO WASHINGTON

with which I am anxious to co-operate, has been preparing an important brief covering this and other questions pertaining to the port, and I do not propose to discuss its contents until its work until the chamber is ready to act; but in all cases there will be complete co-operation and harmonious relations.

"I am satisfied that every effort made to stimulate trade through the port will have the sympathy and aid of every commission, executive agency and unit in Massachusetts, as perhaps the most vital and human need of the hour is to provide work for the unemployed; and work and wages spell peace in the community; content in the home and happiness all around.

HARDING'S GOOD INFLUENCES.

"The message of President Harding is certain to have stimulating effect and do much to dissipate the pessimism that has been too much in evidence in commercial circles of the country for a year past. This seems to be an opportune time for action, as it is understood that New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore are preferential, which it has not been willing to do in the past, and to advocate a flat rate from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard regardless of mileage, as is now operative between Chicago and the Pacific ports."

That New England is slowly digging its own industrial grave is the conclusion reached by the Mayor after a careful study of the expansion and development of the port of Montreal which has been in progress for the past few years.

With the differential rates released from this port New England would at once become the busiest seaport on the Atlantic Coast. The facilities are here, the elevators are here and any amount of shipping can be handled. Nothing stands in the way of this is the differential rates.

MONTREAL WIDE AWAKE.

For while New England has been dozing and neglecting its port possibilities, Montreal and the Marine Department of Canada have been spending more than $60,000,000 in improving its port facilities.

Along the great waterway of the St. Lawrence River to the sea they have erected warehouses, deepened channels and extended Montreal piers to fields and cattle-growing sections, much of the products of which must pass through the port of Boston if this section is to remain alive.

Once Montreal is fitted to care for all Canada's grain and meat shipments Boston and New England will die of industrial starvation. New England is hemmed in on one side by the Hudson River and on another by the St. Lawrence. By the development of a system of barges by the New York Central lines much of the United States shipments which formerly came through New England to Boston by way of the Boston & Albany Railroad are being diverted down the Hudson River to New York. This leaves New England dependent on shipments from Canada, such as grains and meats, to provide ballast for ships coming into Boston with raw materials for this section and taking away our products which do not provide cargo bulk.

WHAT CANADA IS DOING.

To show how New England stands to lose by neglect of the port of Boston, there passed through the city of Sault Ste. Marie during the year 1921 more than 34,000,000 tons of shipping.

Montreal, up to this year, has not been able to care for much of this tonnage which might be headed for her port. But this Spring there will be completed extensions to her grain elevators for storage, extensions of her piers and the deepening of her harbor channel that will invite eventually most of that shipping to her port.

Canada has already spent $90,000,000 on the great St. Lawrence waterway from the Great Lakes to Montreal, deepening the channel to 30 feet. It is planned to deepen the channel from Montreal to the sea to 35 feet at an expenditure of $20,000,000 more.

In addition to this the Marine Department of Canada is proposing to spend $150,000,000 more to deepen channels and canals to admit ocean steamers to Toronto, Port Arthur and Fort Williams on the Canadian side of Duluth, Detroit and Chicago on the American side.

EXPORTS OF GRAIN.

In 1920 there were shipped from Canada by way of Port Arthur and Fort William by water to Canadian ports 73,470,913 bushels of grain, and to American ports by way of water 64,552,078 bushels, making a total of 138,352,991 bushels of grain passing out of Canada by water.

In 1919 the number of ships clearing at Montreal was 873, with a total tonnage of 3,489,863. The city now has capacity for storing 8,000,000 bushels of grain in its elevators. On September 7, 1921, there were 18 ocean-going vessels docked there and loading or unloading shipments.

Up to last August 61,763,630 bushels of grain had been moved through the port of Montreal as compared with 25,000,000 bushels during the same period of the previous year and 37,000,000 bushels during the first half of the year 1914.

MAKES PORTLAND AFTER HARDEST TRIP IN YEARS

Portland, March 2.—Captain John W. Davies of Liverpool when he stepped from the deck of the battered White Star-Dominion liner Canada, that big trip which ended here was the worst in his twenty-five years on the seas. The twisted railings and mid-ship housings about the ship bore witness to his statements. The boat was ten days making Halifax from Liverpool, and two days from that port to Portland. The port side bridge was completely washed by the mountainous seas.

AIRPLANE FIELD PLAN KILLED IN COMMITTEE

The petition of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the construction and leasing of an airplane field in East Boston has been referred to the next Legislature on recommendation of the Harbors and Public Lands Committee. The same committee recommended reference to the next General Court on the bill for a public terminal on Cape Cod. The committee is against State ownership and control of coal barges passing through the canal.

COXEY WOULD OPERATE 112 GOVERNMENT SHIPS

Washington, March 2. — Accompanied by a dozen men who he said were out of work, "General" Jacob S. Coxey, who years ago led an "army of unemployed" from Ohio on a march to Washington, appeared today before the House Merchant Marine Committee, asking authority to take over and operate 112 government vessels now idle.

FEAR SHORTAGE IN NORTHFIELD TOWN ACCOUNTS

Northfield, March 2.—State accountants who are here investigating the accounts of Town Treasurer Warren J. Wright, which the selectmen have refused to approve, are hampered, it became known today, by the loss of papers bearing on town finances kept by Miss Elizabeth Kenney, former keeper and bookkeeper for Treasurer Wright.

These papers, it is said, were destroyed in a fire in Miss Kenney's home several years ago. Miss Kenney left town February 21, leaving no address, and her whereabouts has not yet been learned. State Detective J. V. Daley of Northampton and Deputy Sheriff A. M. Hadlock, of Greenfield were here for a conference with Treasurer Wright and Detective Daley admitted that his visit concerned an alleged shortage in the town accounts which is reported to amount to $10,000.

Treasurer Wright has suffered from failing eyesight and Miss Kenney, it is said, had kept the town books for several years.

IRISH FREE STATE ACT IS UPHELD IN COMMONS

London, March 2.—An amendment to the Irish Free State act to change the status of the Anglo-Irish pact from a treaty to an agreement with Ireland was rejected in the House of COmmons this afternoon, following vigorous debate. The vote was 402 against the amendment, 279; for the amendment, 58.

Dublin, March 2.—The Dail Eireann (Sinn Fein Parliament) today ratified the compromise agreement by which hostile factions of the Ard Fheis, or Irish League of Ireland. Under the agreement the Irish election will be postponed and there is an immediate truce between the moderate and extremist Republicans.

CANDLES NEAR COFFIN SET HOUSE AFIRE

New York, March 2 (By International News Service).—Five persons were burned, two women probably fatally, in a fire which swept this home of Tony Zacaresi in Brooklyn, today.

Lighted candles at the head of a coffin containing the corpse of Zacaresi's eight-year-old son caught fire in window curtains. The coffin was carried to the street after being badly scorched, but the body was not touched.

Mrs. Zacaresi and Miss Carmella Zinello were carried from the upper floor unconscious by a policeman. Their clothing and hair were ablaze. One of the women dropped the fire and tried to beat it out with her hands. Other members of the household joined her, but the flames spread rapidly.

Adjoining houses were menaced and seventy-five girl telephone operators in an exchange across the street were thrown into panic.

When firemen arrived Zacaresi and two other men were still attacking the blaze while flames were curling around the coffin. Firemen seized the casket and carried it to the street, which was filled with snow and slush. Later it was removed to a nearby undertaking shop.

In addition to the two women, the other persons injured in the fire were Zacaresi, Tony Irazato and Ralph Oliveri.

SPIRIT OF FRIEND DID THE HOUSEWORK, MRS. READ TOLD SISTER

GHOST IN COTTAGE JEALOUS

The ghost of Joseph Aldrich came back from the days after his death to do the housework for Mrs. Mary A. Read, according to testimony given before Judge O'Connell in the Suffolk Superior Court at today's hearing on the attempt of relatives to break her will.

The witness was the dead woman's sister, Mrs. Abbie M. Jordan. She added her bit to the astounding list of psychic phenomena which are said to have featured Mrs. Read's life after another sister, Mrs. Eleanor Haskell, had testified.

"It was about a week or so after Joe Aldrich a death," she said. "Joe had always done the housework for her, and I thought I had better offer her my services. So I asked her if I could help her with the sweeping, dusting, washing, and so on.

"She replied, 'Oh, no. Joe comes back every day and does it for me. Just as he always did. There's no work for me at all.'"

WORE THREE WAISTS.

On another occasion, Mrs. Jordan said, Mrs. Read asked her to help her find the key to her safety deposit box. When she started to help her hunt it, the witness continued, she saw it on Mrs. Read's desk. Mrs. Read instantly said, "Oh, Joe must have put it there for me." This happened some months after Aldrich's death.

Mrs. Jordan described an auto top vehicle, she, Mrs. Read and Aldrich took to Chatham, Mr. Mrs. Read had insisted, the witness said, that Aldrich occupy the same room with her. "Because I like to see Joe there when I wake up."

Eleanor J. Macomber of Medford, a former neighbor of Mrs. Read, testified that she had once accompanied Mrs. Read to a dressmaker's office. When Mrs. Read disrobed, she said, she displayed an enormous amount of wearing apparel, despite the fact that the weather was warm. Mrs. Read was wearing three waists, all of different hues, two suits of underwear, three petticoats and one outer skirt, the witness said. Her hat box was crowded by three-inch safety pins.

ABHORRED LONELINESS.

Ellen C. Haskell, a nephew of the dead woman, who has joined in the fight to break the will, left his share her $32,000 estate to the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals after his aunt had informed him that "Joe's ghost" kept her from being lonesome at her sanitary cottage on Hog Cove.

"One day when my aunt was preparing to go down to the cottage for the Summer I asked her if she didn't get lonesome all alone down there," he testified. "She said, 'Oh, no, Joe comes there. Joe Aldrich is there almost all of the time.'"

He asked her if her deceased husband, Irving Read, never visited her there. She said that he showed up occasionally, but that Joe would always come along and send him away.

When he asked Mrs. Read if she could touch these ghosts which came to visit her, she replied: "I don't believe I'd want to. Aldrich sometimes would, but I'd want to."

"SAW THEM PLAINLY."

He then suggested to her she might be the victim of a delusion. She insisted she was not and declared: "Why, I can see them as plain as I see you now. They come and sit right here."

Miss Haskell was preceded to the stand by his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Haskell, sister of the late Mrs. Read. Mrs. Haskell, some sixty-four years of age, created a mother sensation when she declared Mrs. Read had been "visited" by a ghost while in a cemetery.

On that occasion, Mrs. Haskell said, Mrs. Read had been visiting the grave of her mother, when she suddenly turned and told her companions that Joseph Aldrich had appeared to her, carry flowers she had placed on the grave her to the cemetery.

Witnesses in Court Contest to Break Read Will

LYNN MAN HELD ON CHARGES OF YOUNG GIRL

Tells Court He Lured Her to His Apartment and Gave Her Drugged Candy

Fifteen-year-old Anna Elizabeth Lee sobbingly faced Lyman Turcotte, salesman and law student, son of a wealthy Maine business man and resident of Lynn's famous "Diamond District" in Lynn Court today.

Turcotte, well groomed, man about town of thirty-five years, pleaded not guilty.

Turcotte, the girl said, lured her to his apartments on New Ocean street, Lynn, gave her drugged candy, and had her treated by a woman.

This new two months ago. For several days following, she testified, she was afraid to go home and accompanied the man to several hotels, one in Salem, before she finally ran away from him and went to a friend of her mother who took her home.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Lee of Liberty street Lynn.

Two physicians were called to testify as to injuries sustained by the girl.

15,524 WOMEN WORK IN BRIDGEPORT, CT.

Washington, March 2.—Of the 145,755 inhabitants of Bridgeport in 1920, 43,368 were males and 15,524 were females ten years of age and over, who were reported gainfully occupied, the Census Bureau announced today.

LAWYER TRUST CHARGED BY WOMAN

Plot to Steal Courts From the People, She Declares at Hearing

Bills designed to relieve the burden of work on the seven justices of the State Supreme Judicial Court were heard before the Joint Judiciary Committee of the Legislature today. Thomas W. Proctor, representing Henry P. Hurlburt, president of the Boston Bar Association, spoke in favor of the petition of George L. Mayberry providing concurrent powers of jurisdiction in the Superior Court except in unusual cases.

Clarence W. Rowley, speaking in favor of his bill, which would limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to questions of law, declared that Massachusetts is facing a complete breaking down of its judiciary and that the Legislature can find no remedy between killing the justices or giving them relief.

He said there are 500 cases before the Supreme Court and only half of them had been argued.

Attorney Frank W. Grinnell, secretary of the Massachusetts Bar Association, appeared in favor of a bill providing for a permanent commission to study the systems of the courts.

Mr. Rowley appeared in opposition on the grounds that there are too many commissions and such a body would constitute a fifth wheel in the judiciary.

Miss Margaret Taylor declared the bill was an attempt to steal the courts away from the people. "Last year this bill was a Union Club affair. This year it is the Boston Bar Association," she said. "We have a doctors' trust, a bankers' trust and now they are attempting to form a legal trust."

SAYS DYE MAKERS ARE ENGAGED IN PRICE WAR

Washington, March 2.—Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation and former alien property custodian, entered an unqualified denial of "facts and allegations" that "chemists' exists among the dye and chemical manufacturers of America, which is controlled largely by the alien committee investigating the charges. "On the contrary," said Garvan, "there is a bitter, a violent price war on, a set of competitive conditions so acute that the stability of the industry itself is threatened. This war of almost a cut-throat nature has been on for the past months and I say without fear of contradiction that this competition could not exist in any witness it may call evidence that would substantiate by a court of justice the charge that there is a monopoly."

BERKMAN, SICK OF U. S., IS NOT COMING BACK

New York, March 2.—Alexander Berkman, the Anarchist now in Stockholm with Emma Goldman will never attempt to return to the United States as revealed today in a letter Berkman said he had just received and that reports were current in the United States that he wished to get back. He said he could not speak for Mrs. Goldman, but as for himself such reports were "idiotic," as he was "sick of the United States." Berkman and Miss Goldman were deported about several years ago. Late in 1921 they left Russia.

HID GUN IN WOODEN LEG TO AID BANDIT'S ESCAPE

Stanton, Mich., March 2.—An unusual story of how Tonny Orsinger, one-legged train robber, escaped from the Chicago jail was revealed here today in the arrest of Kenneth Kain, who is said by the police that Kain confessed to assisting O'Connor. Kain, who has been held here, accused O'Connor of hiding a hollow portion of it. He was arrested in Chicago for safe keeping and reports were "idiotic," as he was "sick of the United States." Berkman and Miss Goldman were deported about several years ago. Late in 1921 they left Russia.

ASKS TO WITHDRAW ANTI-BILLBOARD BILL

Lincoln Bryant of Milton appeared before the Committee on Legal Affairs today and asked permission to withdraw his petition to permit cities and towns further to regulate and restrict billboards and advertising signs and devices within the public view. He explained that the matter is in charge of the department of the division of highways and that he understood Chairman John N. Cole is giving the matter a test.

DAUGHERTY SAYS THAT PACKERS OBEY THE LAW

Washington, March 2—"The Big Five" packers are obeying the law, Attorney-General Daugherty informed the Senate today, and that while the packers' consent decree, in which the United States Supreme Court ordered the packers to divorce themselves from all unrelated industries, is being carried out "to the letter."

FAVOR CUTTING ARMY TO 115,000 ENLISTED MEN

Washington, March 2.—Reductions of the size of the regular army to 115,000 enlisted men has been tentatively agreed upon by the subcommittee which is drafting the army appropriation bill, it became known today. The present strength of the army is approximately 137,000 men.

WOMAN THEATRE HEAD FINDS SAFE ROBBED

Mrs. Al Newhall, Lynn's only woman theatre manager, entered her office in the Theatre Comique today and screamed. On the floor was the theatre's safe door. In the safe was nothing. There had been $500. Detectives investigated, took finger prints, looked over the forced transom on the roof, and then departed to make a report.

TEN HURT WHEN 1-MAN CARS AT PALMER CRASH

All the Injured in Funeral Special Which Was on the Way to Interment

Springfield, March 2.—Ten persons were injured, six seriously, in a head-on crash between cars of the Boston & Albany railroad at Fuller's Corner, Palmer, today.

One of the cars was a special containing a party of mourners on their way to a funeral.

All of the injured were in this car. The cars were both proceeding at a good rate of speed when they came together. The crash was said to a misunderstanding of orders. The funeral car was said to have had the right of way.

The injured included four women and six men. The seriously hurt were taken to the Wing Memorial Hospital in Palmer. They are:

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Motorman Robert Gloster of Palmer.

Mrs. Thomas Cullen of Palmer.
Mrs. Daniel Sullivan of Palmer.
Thomas Shea of Bondsville.
Daniel Burns of Bondsville.
John Mansfield of Bondsville.

All received multiple cuts, bruises and internal injuries. They were rushed to the hospital in autos commandeered on the road.

The less seriously hurt were treated at nearby homes, the injured and hastily summoned physicians.

Those in the funeral car were on their way to St. Thomas' cemetery in Palmer to attend the burial of Mrs. Daniel Kennedy of Bondsville. They had previously attended the services at the Catholic church in that town. The party comprised about fifty persons, a large number of them women.

HURLED FROM SEATS.

When the cars collided the passengers were hurled from their seats and showered with broken glass and splintered timbers. The front of the motorman's car was demolished. Motorman Gloster was jammed in the wreckage and had to be cut out with axes. He was unconscious when lifted from the car.

A panic among the passengers on both cars followed the crash. Women screamed and battled to reach the doors. There were no serious fires, causing injury to themselves and others, due to the prompt action of motor passengers.

On the regular trolley passengers received a severe shaking up.

DE VALERA AGAIN THREATENS TO QUIT DAIL

Announcement Follows Griffith's Refusal to Disclose Dockyard Plans

Dublin, March 2 (By the Associated Press)—Another threat to withdraw from the Dail Eireann was made to Eamonn De Valera today when Arthur Griffith refused, as president of the Dail, to answer a question regarding plans for the dockyard at Haulbowline Dockyard at Queenstown on the ground that this was strictly pro vincial government work.

De Valera declared the question was a test involving the supremacy of the Dail.

An effort by the Republicans to shift the meetings of the Dail to the Mansion House so the public could attend was defeated by a vote of 58 to 46. This motion was thought to indicate that Mr. De Valera's party expected a prolonged meeting of the Dail, while the Griffith supporters, on the other hand, desired to terminate the session as soon as possible.

The Dail formally ratified the Anglo-Irish agreement so far as it concerned the Dail and the election to be held on the issue of the treaty and the Constitution of the Free State.

O'Kelly asked Michael Collins for particulars as to Ireland's liability under the treaty for the British debt and war pensions, and what Ireland's annual payment would be.

Collins said he did not accept the view that Ireland owed England any debt. Both sides had stated their cases and the treaty has provided there should be arbitration of the opposing claims. If it were found by arbitration that Ireland owed anything he was of the opinion that the liability would be met immediately and not made an annual charge.

PUBLIC DEBT JUMPED 90 MILLION LAST MONTH

Washington, March 2.—An increase of more than $90,000,000 in the public debt during February was announced today by the Treasury. On February 28 the total debt stood at $23,478,867,749, as compared with $23,388,544,236 on January 31. The increase was largely accounted for, officials explained, by the issuance of approximately $60,000,000 in Treasury bonds during the month, while government securities retired approximated $911,000,000.

CLAIM ADJUSTER HELD FOR THEFT OF $400

John J. Reed, thirty-five years old, living at 48 South End hotel, was arrested today, charged with the larceny of $400 from the Liabilities Adjustment Corporation, Ltd., No. 40 Central street. Reed worked for two years as an adjuster of claims. It is alleged he turned in vouchers for amounts higher than paid out in settlements and pocketed the difference.

Young Men Fall Behind in Race With More Aged Romeos

Number of "December and May" Unions in Greater Boston Increasing Rapidly

By HAROLD R. HALL

Are the young men of Boston forgetting how to woo a pretty maid?

Has Dan Cupid forgotten that there is such a thing as youth in the city of Boston?

Or, is youth falling into disrepute with the members of the weaker sex?

Whatever the cause there is a regular epidemic of marriage of young women and old men in this city of culture. "December and May" unions have taken on added speed during the past few days, and men who are now in the autumn of their lives are putting the handsome young Romeos to shame.

One of the most outstanding of these cases is that of Miss Clara Cofrelly of Waltham, who eloped with Dr. Cornelius J. McCormick of the same city. Clara is 24 years old. Her aged husband is only 74—a difference of just 50 years. The pair slipped off to New York, where they were quietly married last Sunday. Immediately there was a real sensation in Waltham social circles.

One of the most extraordinary features of this union of youth and age is the fact that Dr. McCormick brought his bride into the world 24 years ago as the attending physician at her birth. Since then the doctor has been married twice. He is a rugged specimen of manhood, despite his 74 years. Considerable opposition is said to have been put up by the girl's family, but love conquered and she won the day—and the bride.

EYES "WIDE OPEN."

The couple is said to be wealthy and received $100,000 from her father's estate some time ago.

Then comes Mrs. Ada M. Hodgkins of Penfield street, Roslindale. She is thirty-eight years old. Next week she plans to marry Dr. Thomas M. Strong, well known ear, nose and throat specialist. Dr. Strong is seventy-three years old. A difference here of thirty-five years.

Attractive, pleasing of manner, brilliant conversationalist, Mrs. Hodgkins is known as the type of woman who would charm a man of younger years as a wife. Will she? Dr. Strong is one of the most prosperous business men of middle age. But she, too, turns to take for her partner, and declares that she has done it with her eyes wide open and after considerable thought.

"Age does not matter," said Mrs. Hodgkins with a joyful smile. "I love him just the same. After all what have we to do it? I know that we will be happy."

Mrs. Hodgkins owns her own little home in Roslindale, is a member of the Eastern Star, is an accomplished pianist and is petite. For years she was a graduate of Radcliffe College and is treasurer of the Massachusetts Hospital and prominent in her profession.

DIFFERENCE OF 25 YEARS.

Another romance in which there is a difference of twenty-five years in the ages of the bride and groom is that of Miss Mary A. Mock, attractive and pretty, and her employer, John J. Coutman, forty-four. They have taken out their marriage license and the wedding is set for an early date.

This romance, in which the ages of the principals are so wide apart, is one of those business romances that has blossomed in about but six weeks' time. Miss Mock came East from her home in Bluffton, O., to attend the New England Conservatory of Music. For the past six months she has been employed as secretary to Coutman, a man, who is a well-known Boston shoe manufacturer with an office on Essex street. Love ripened and the pair, despite the twenty-five years' difference in ages are now planning to let the heart rule, and one more is added to the list of May and December marriages.

While the marriages are creating sensations among the friends of the young women, the Ghost of William Shakespeare is chuckling over in Merry England, for it was many years ago when William wrote:

"Let still the woman take
An elder than herself, so wears
she to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart:
For, boy, however we do praise
ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and
unfirm,
More longing, wavering, sooner lost and worn,
Than women's are."

William explained a lot in those lines. He knew women—even the fair sex—and they are taking his advice in Boston.

BANK SEEKS AUTHORITY TO PAY INTEREST

Van Courtlandt Lawrence, counsel for the First State Bank of Boston, has before the Committee on Banks and Banking for his petition that banks organized under State law may pay interest on deposits. The only bank in the State under that law is the First State Bank of Boston at the corner of Salem and Parmenter streets. Since it was formed the law has been changed so that no banks other than savings banks or trust companies can now incorporate under the law. Therefore to pass the bill would be practically special legislation.

Creditors Sue Maiden Man

The Rousseau Baking Company, Inc., of Fall River was petitioned into bankruptcy today in the Federal court by creditors of that city, the claims totaling $1,160.92. Creditors today petitioned Herbert C. Lord, doing business as Lord's Market, Malden, into bankruptcy, their claims aggregating $2,851.05.

"Age does not matter," said Mrs. Hodgkins, 38, in speaking of her impending marriage to Dr. Thomas W. Strong, 73. "I love him, what more is there. I know we will be happy."

MRS. ADA M. HODGKINS

Her home is in Penfield street, Roslindale. Although only 38 years old she will wed next week Dr. Thomas M. Strong, 35 years her senior. She accepted the doctor as her life partner, she said, after careful consideration.

'BRAINS' OF DRUG RING SOUGHT IN TAYLOR PROBE

Arrest of Film Actor Is Also Expected Following Mrs. Rupp's Disclosures

Los Angeles, March 2 (By International News Service)—Launching of a nation-die search for the "brains" of an international drug ring and the possibility of a new arrest in the case featured today's investigations of circumstances surrounding the slaying of William Desmond Taylor, film director.

In connection with the search it is expected that should successful efforts of the investigators, startling revelations will be made as to the methods of operation of members of the ring.

The new arrest expected here was declared to hinge on information supplied the police by Mrs. John Rupp, who caused the arrest on suspicion of robbery of six other suspects.

It was said that the new suspect is a film actor and an associate of the one in custody. That the suspect has his residence in Los Angeles for the slaying was a belief of police investigators.

Unconfirmed reports were current again today that one of the six men arrested on data supplied by Mrs. Rupp was on the verge of "breaking" under the severe questioning to which he has been subjected.

The members of the sextet were added to be members of a bootlegging band that quarrelled with the film director.

GREAT LAKES NAVAL STATION MAY CLOSE

Great Lakes, Illinois, March 2. By the Associated Press.—The Middle-West may lose its only naval establishment. Wreckers have nearly finished the destruction of the vast war-time camps through which nearly 100,000 seamen passed during 1917 and 1918, and now, as a result of the contemplated reductions in naval forces, the permanent station may be abandoned and training concentrated on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

O'CALLAGHAN'S WIDOW DEMANDS VOTE CHANGE

Dublin, March 2 (By International News Service)—The widow of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Limerick moved in the Dail Eireann today that the voting age of women in Ireland be reduced from thirty to twenty-one years. Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith opposed the motion on the ground it would make it necessary to compile a new register of enfranchised persons and delay the general election.

24 NEW INFLUENZA CASES ARE REPORTED

A slight decrease is shown in influenza and lobar pneumonia cases by the figures announced today by the Health Department. For the past twenty-four hours there were twenty-four new cases and one death from influenza and thirteen cases reported with four deaths from pneumonia.

JEFFRIES WILL VISIT HUB IN HIS CRUSADE

Former Champion to "Put on Gloves for Jehovah" and Tour Country

Los Angeles, March 2.—Discussing his plans to "put on the gloves for Jehovah" in an evangelistic tour of the country, James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, said today that his "God is a sanctifiable God."

As Jeffries, who has been a student of the Bible for years, understands the inspired work, God is not opposed to the drinking of liquor. It was said further that the former champion believes the Lord is not opposed to smoking, and he has also been commonly known as profane language.

When Jeff was questioned relative to his plan to enter the evangelistic field with A. F. Futterer, a well-known student of the Bible, he said he was giving the matter serious consideration.

"I'll not say I will and I'll not say I will not," he said. "I am deeply interested. In case I should accompany Futterer, I should take an active part in the work."

That his plans must wait upon the completion of the publishing of the Bible commentaries was one reason given.

Jeffries said he would deliver a message to the men of the world if he decided to "fight for God's corner against Satan." His aim, he said, would be to awaken the intelligence of the men of the world in the Bible.

Regarding prohibition Jeff said in his opinion the Lord is not opposed to drinking. The former champion mentioned that Christ's first miracle was to turn water into wine. He pointed out other Bible facts which in his opinion justified him in thinking wine was not frowned upon.

On the proposed tour Jeff and Futterer will appear in Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New York and Boston and in cities on the Pacific Coast.

MANY FAIL TO FILE TAX RETURNS ON TIME

Hundreds of Massachusetts citizens today are wondering whether or not they will have to pay a fine for not filing their income tax returns on time, having arrived too late at the office of the director, and were forced to go away with unfiled blanks in their hands. When the office closed for the day the rush continued far into the night.

SMOKE DRIVES TENANTS FROM ALLSTON HOUSE

Smoke filling the four-story brick apartment house at No. 58 Glenville avenue, Allston, drove occupants into the street today. The blaze was confined to a suite on the first floor occupied by Ralph Wolfe. The Wolfe family was away. It is believed an overheated radiator caused the blaze. Damage was $500.

PONZI ON STAND WITH NOTEBOOK IN HIS HAND

Smiles as He Testifies Before Federal Court in Suits Against Investors

With a smile on his lips and a notebook in his hand, Charles Ponzi stepped boldly to the stand in Federal Court today as the star witness in the suits brought against seven original Ponzi investors by the trustees of the fallen money wizard's estate.

The three men he is to recover cash which these investors withdrew just before the crash.

Ponzi was on the stand but a few minutes. He was called by Attorney John H. Devine, counsel for Harry W. Crockford, one of the defendants. He answered the few questions aimed at him in an easy voice and once or twice uttered bitters in the room by his dry rejoinders.

On July 25, 1920, he said, he had $1,500,000 on deposit in the Hanover Trust Company, covered by a certificate of deposit.

"On July to did you have a gentleman in your employ named William H. McMasters?" asked Attorney Devine.

Ponzi eyed the attorney a moment, then replied: "I had a man in my employ by that name—yes."

A ripple of laughter ran through the crowd and was checked by court officers.

Ponzi admitted he had read stories written by McMasters stating Ponzi was insolvent and was about to go broke, but denied they were based on fact. He said he was solvent at the time and had no idea of going out of business.

"Did you think you could continue?" asked Devine. Ponzi could answer, Judge Anderson, presiding, interrupted with a remark that started an uproar of laughter in which even court officers joined.

"He might say the moon was made of green cheese," said His Honor, but that would not be of much use in court in a cheese case."

Ponzi left the stand after the question and this ended his testimony.

Eugene J. Gross was called as a witness by the trustees and Gaston Browne. He said he gave Browne $600 to invest for him, but denied giving Browne the right to draw it out. Browne withdrew the money last February, however. This concluded the taking of evidence.

McCORMICK INSISTS HE WILL WED MISS BAKER

London, March 2 (By International News Service)—"You can take it from me, we will be married," was the declaration today of Master McCormick, member of a multi-millionaire Chicago family, whose engagement recently announced when the bride-to-be, Miss Mary Baker, failed to appear at a civil ceremony which the Baker was to have sailed for England on the Aquitania, but failed to do so. Mr. McCormick said the marriage would take place in May.

DIAMOND RECOVERED BY BROOKLINE GIRL

A cherished and valuable diamond ring again adorns the hand of Miss Mary Hickey of No. 1593 Beacon street, Brookline, employe of an automobile firm. Miss Hickey lost the ring a few days ago. Then it turned up in a pail of garbage at Cedarcrest Farm, Waltham. It was found by Daniel Sheehy in charge of the garbage and turned over to the Brookline police. Miss Hickey went and identified it today.

SIXTY DRAWINGS IN NEW FAMOUS TITLES TEST

Here you have Drawing No. 2 of the Boston American's $5,000 Famous Title Test.

And the Correct Title? Easy! You probably have found it before you got as far as the third line of this "story."

But do not be too sure. Remember from the very beginning of your conflict with Mr. Artist that his aim, design and earnest hope is that no two persons among you may select the Correct Titles of his 60 pictures.

The Famous Titles Test will consist of 60 of these drawings. Each will be printed without a title. The contestant is expected to find and write the CORRECT title. With each drawing there will be printed a List of Titles. Here, among other titles, can be found the Correct Title. One title in each list will fit the day's picture BETTER than any other title. That title will be the Correct Title.

On more than one occasion there will be found in the List of Titles a title, or titles, which appear to fit the picture. These problems will call for special thought, earnest study, serious consideration.

READ THE RULES.

Kindly remember that pictures and titles must NOT be sent in before the close of the Test. They must come to us "all together at one time," after No. 60 has been printed. Every contestant should read the Rules of the Test.

You will find the Famous Titles Test "working good entertainment." When a really difficult problem appears it will give you a new member of the family circle something to do of a March or an April evening.

All that the great majority of you will get ut of the entertainment will BE entertainment, but 719 or 219 of the Boston American is holding 219 awards which we regard as cash, as follows, to those who at the close of the Test send in the largest number of Correct Titles:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 each	1,000
110 Awards of $5 each	550
Total	$5,000

DO BE CAREFUL.

If this is the first Title Test in which you have taken part, permit the Test Editor to point out to you that the list of Titles is as much a part of the Test as the Test Drawing. Sooner or later it will be of the greatest importance that you realize just what the List of Titles contain. Frequently, a hurried glance through the List will be all that is necessary. On other occasions—DO be careful!

It will be all of three days before the Test Editor can reply to the last of the friendly letters which now are piled up in front of him, and he must therefore ask his friends to bear with him at least that long. Four pages of the Boston American would be given up room enough for all these boost letters, every one of which brought to the names of from one to more than a dozen new contestants. Beyond and question the Famous Titles Test will be the daddy of them all in size and enthusiasm.

With the passing of the time for filing Enrollment blanks, in the 4,000 Membership Competition, it became more and more apparent that the wise contestant is he who has an understanding with his newspaper and an agreement that, come what may, one copy of the Boston American will be saved for him every day.

It will be two or three or four days before some newsdealers realize exactly what has struck them. The Membership Competition, for all that has been said about it here, has been conducted largely, in a way of speaking, under the surface. Suddenly the results have burst upon bewildered newsdealers and orders in many cases have been doubled and even quadrupled. By the early part of next week the dealer will be in a better position to understand where he is at. Meanwhile it will be well for every contestant to place a standing order for the paper and have the order acknowledged and understood.

Any contestant who hears the "All sold out" report from any newsdealer will confer a great favor upon the Boston American by reporting the incident without delay to the Famous Titles Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston (8), Mass. Please give the dealer's name and approximately the hour when he was "all sold out." The matter will be remedied immediately. The Boston American is determined that every reader, no matter where he lives, MUST be supplied with his paper.

Although the Famous Titles Test is not two days old when these lines are written the Test Editor has been asked two questions of weight. Twice in these contests the Test Artist has relied for illustration on obsolete definitions of the word "title." In times past, the authorities agree, lake meant "a pit or a den." It still is in he dictionaries, and it is marked "obsolete," meaning "no longer in use" or "forgotten."

The Artist argues that the fact that a word is "neglected" does not prove that it is unfit but the gentleman has been overruled. There will be nothing of the obsolete in the Famous Titles Test.

The second question the Test Editor is NOT going to answer. It is this: "Will the answer be used for more than one picture?"

This question, if raised out here and now as unfair. Demands have been made that the artist keep away from the obsolete. But the Test Editor must show greater care and a finer discrimination in the make-up of his Lists and Titles. The artist has promised to be on his best behavior. The Test Editor is desirous that no matter his part of the Test proof against any reasonable criticism.

But, dear friends, we cannot label each of these sixty drawings with its Correct Title. We have got to leave something for YOU to do.

This is not saying that the same title WILL not be used in more than one picture. It is not saying that this will NOT be done. That is a question to be determined by the contestant, as by rights it should be answered by the Test Artist in a style never tackled before in contests of this kind.

At present writing, at this moment leads to a repetition of the statement that there are three days to "enroll" in order to take part in the Famous Titles Test. Enrollment blanks are printed on page 3. Any who wish to join the Test, come right in and make yourself at home. If you prefer to see Drawing No. 1, send a postal card to the Test Editor, Write on your card the name and address which brought you No. 1, and the First Drawing will come flying back to you.

Don't be overconfident, now because a picture or two are "easy." There is $1,000 at the end of the road for an undentified person among you. There is a $750 for a second, there is $500 for a third, and so on—but, "boys" and "girls," the Test Artist is a sly, clever trickster and mysterious critter. Watch out! Famous Title Test Drawing No. 2 in Friday's Boston American.

Tell your friends about it. The Test Editor will supply Drawings No. 1 and No. 2 upon request.

Rules of the Titles Test

The Boston American Famous Titles Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by the newspaper to its readers who submit the largest number of correct titles to the sixty pictures, to appear consecutively upon each day during the period of the contest.

Employees of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of sixty pictures, each representing a famous title, to be printed, one each day, in the Boston American. The first picture on Wednesday, March 1, 1922. Each picture will be numbered consecutively, which has been run in the Boston American will not be used more than once, excepting in the case of a picture, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture. No duplicate titles will be allowed to count more than one award, and not more than one award will be given to any one family.

Each correct title must be written or printed on a coupon, which will be published in the Boston American, or a form or design closely resembling the same, and must bear the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles by "dots" nor by "dashes." Do not write titles under one another on a row of letters.

Where there are no complete sets of correct titles awards will be given in the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving preference to skill and accuracy.

In case of a tie awards will be made according to the dates and hours of receipt of the blanks containing the correct titles, or, if the contest be decided to count, the time when the several sets of correct titles were received.

Duplicate circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, they will be sent to before the last picture is published. Duplicate titles may be sent in by mail titles from day to day and at the end of the Test. Contestants may send in their titles by mail and them in a package at any one time.

There will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American office in envelopes, by mail, 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., within the space of time limit, and no titles received after the end of the Test will be considered.

All envelopes containing titles should be addressed as follows: "Famous Titles Test," Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston (8), Mass., P. O. Box 220," and each envelope must contain the name and address of the sender legibly written or printed on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will appear in the Boston American, no request for titles will be absolutely necessary. Each package of titles must be sent by postal rates, as mail of this class receives the preference in the handling and conveyance. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse any and all packages of titles on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book in the Test. Lists of Famous Titles will be printed in the Boston American, but the accuracy will depend entirely upon the correct title.

Contestants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Famous Titles Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American.

MILL OWNERS IN BREAK, DECLARE R.I. STRIKERS

Point to Opening of Plant at Pawtucket With Old Scale in Force

Pawtucket, R. I., March 2.—What is hailed by strike leaders as the first break in the ranks of the textile manufacturers occurred here today when the Arme Company opened its mill on a forty-eight-hour week schedule and with pre-strike wages in force.

The mill's entire force of 750 operatives returned to work. The management of the mill, according to the operatives, has agreed to pay time and a half for any work in excess of an eight-hour day. The millitia has, at the request of the mill officials, been withdrawn. The mill had been closed several weeks.

Ringing of the bell on the Hope Mill at Hope Village today announced the reopening of that plant under the 20 per cent. wage reduction and longer hours program. About 200 striking operatives rushed to the scene and took up picket duty.

They declared only fifteen workers had entered the mill. Companies of militia were summoned from Pontiac and Natick, but their arrival was delayed by the slump. Sheriff Lynch and six deputies were stationed outside the mill.

The opening of the Hope Mill with the pay slash in effect was seen as an attempt to break the cotton strike.

Canada Trying to Lure Strikers Away

Manchester, N. H., March 2.—The arrival of Rev. J. B. L. Bazinaux of Montreal, representing the Ontario government, in Manchester to interest the French-speaking mill operatives in the possibilities of Northeastern Ontario, the announcement of a picket detail of 648 persons to daily patrol the twenty-seven gates and entrances to the textile mills and the selection of No. 10 Amherst street was the principal union commissary at which strikers will be given rations when it is found necessary, were the only features of the textile strike situation today. The exodus of mill operatives from the city, since the strike has been of relatively small proportion, but it has been steady, according to railroad officials.

R. I. Militia Companies Will Be Demobilized

By the Associated Press.

Pawtucket, R. I., March 2.—Three companies of the Coast Artillery, the 240th, 316th and 251st, a machine gun detail of the 103d Field Artillery, and one medical officer and eight enlisted men of the 157nd Ambulance Company, left Pawtucket today for the state camp at Quonsett, where it is reported they will be demobilized.

All of the 240th except the machine gun detail, were quartered at the plant of the Jenckes Spinning Company.

About 300 soldiers are left in the city to guard the mills.

POLICE FIND ANIMALS LIVING IN FAMILY

New Bedford, March 2.—The home of John Gouveia of Fairview terrace was a veritable Noah's ark until the police got wise. Two arrests were made for neglecting his children. His family shared their quarters with six cows, five pigs, a horse, fifty hens and sundry rabbits and other animals, reports the probation officer. Both he and Judge Milliken in local court rebelled against the aromatic odor which pervaded the premises. The wife of Gouveia was arraigned. He ordered a recognizance of $500 entered. The defendant was placed on probation.

GRANITE STATE SUICIDE MAY BE OF CAMBRIDGE

Manchester, N. H., March 2.—A man giving the name of Louis Spagman and claiming to come from Cambridge, committed suicide in his room in the New Manchester House here early today by taking a dose of poison. He was found dead in bed, the poison by his hand, when the door of the room was forced. The letter bore no name. One was to a Mrs. Spagman, No. 41 Irving street, Boston. Another was to a friend. It contained $5 and a request that the friend settle a debt.

CLAIM YOUTH RAN OFF WITH MOTHER-IN-LAW

Maysville, Ky., March 2.—Two divorce suits are pending in the Mason County Circuit Court here because Carl Kellum, twenty-three years old, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Addie Gallagher, forty-five years old, ran off together, according to the petitions filed by Mrs. Ina Gallagher Kellum, daughter and wife, respectively, and John Gallagher, fifty-five, against his wife. Kellum and Mrs. Gallagher are living together in this county now, the petitions charge.

BISHOP LINES TO OPEN EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

Native of Connecticut Chosen as Preacher for Meeting in Portland, Ore., in Fall

New York, March 2.—Right Reverend Edwin Stevens Lines, D. D., Episcopal Bishop of Newark, has been designated as the preacher for the opening session of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, which will meet in Portland, Oregon, in September.

Beginning with Bishop William White, "Father of the Church," many of the most distinguished leaders in church history have been accorded the honor of preaching the sermon at the opening triennial gatherings of the church, at which are gathered in joint session the entire Episcopal body of the communion as well as the clerical and lay representatives from every land and clime where the American church operates.

The sermon at the General Convention of 1919 was preached by Bishop Brent of Western New York, and that of the Convention of 1916 by the venerable Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, presiding bishop of the church.

Others who have preached in the same capacity were the Bishop of Salisbury, Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts, the Bishop of London, and reaching back into the earlier history of the church the names of Bishops Kemper, Hopkins, Meade, Bedell, Griswold, Hobart and Seabury are all associated with the service.

Bishop Lines is a native of Naugatuck. He was graduated from Yale in 1870, took religious orders in 1874, and was consecrated Bishop of Newark, November 18, 1902. Yale, Princeton and Rutgers have made him the recipient of honorary degrees.

He is a member of the National Council of the Church, president of the synod of the Second Province and also president of the board of Trustees of the General Theological Seminary. He is the author of numerous historical papers and addresses.

WOULD CUT MEMBERSHIP OF THE HOUSE TO 217

Washington, March 2.—Representative John Clarke of New York today introduced a bill in the House to reduce the membership of that body from 435 to 217 and to increase the salaries of Congressmen from $7,500 to $12,000 a year. The bill also puts a ceiling on the speaker's salary at $15,000 a year and provides that members all be fined $100 a day for each day they are absent.

BREACH WIDENS IN FIGHT ON LLOYD GEORGE

Tory Leaders Decide on Purely Party Paltform for General Elections

By International News Service.

London, March 2.—The confusion which had begun to assert itself over possibility of a settlement of the dispute between Premier Lloyd George and his political enemies in the Coalition party was largely dissipated today.

Most of the leaders of the Conservative (Tory) party met in Parliament Building and decided it was necessary to put a purely Tory platform in the field at the next general election. This apparently widened the breach between the Premier and his political foes, known as the Unionist Die-Hards.

The opposition to the Premier is being directed by Sir George Younger, chairman of the Unionist party. He is one of the most active opponents of a general election when it was proposed in February.

The Premier is fighting the hardest battle of his long and spectacular career. He will be forced to fight with, but if not it is predicted that his successor will be Balfour.

Balfour, who is acting as mediator, denied that the Premier had declared that either Sir George Younger must resign or he will retire.

The Coalition party was formed in 1916 and consists of Unionists (Tories) and Liberals. The Asquith ministry had been forced out at a critical time in the war and it was decided that the interests of the country could be served best by giving representation to the two rival political organizations in the Cabinet.

LASCELLES AND BRIDE PLAN TRIP TO ITALY

By International News Service.

Shifnal, England, March 2.—Viscount Lascelles and his bride, Princess Mary, will return to London at the end of next week. After a short stay in London they will leave for Italy, via Paris. Residents of the village, respecting wishes of the bride and groom, are keeping aloof from the estate at Weston Park. Before leaving Hitrodiuce a full in the House of Lords tonight, Premier Lloyd George probably will take part in several Shropshire hunts and the Princess will visit the village schools.

Fresh From Paris

Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France.

PARISIAN tailleurs are being sent out, one at a time, with plenty of frocks and Spring coats in between—perhaps to pique our interest.

But the ones that are appearing have a very definite air of being permanent. A model is stone gray English cloth, at the left, has a snug-fitting collar and large sporting pockets, and in the same spirit the collar and nicked cuffs fasten with flaps. Panels all around the skirt, that end a little short of the dentline, are unexpected, so far as the tailleur is concerned.

A COAT for walking and out-of-door moments generally is of English cloth plaided in white and gray, with collar and cuffs of black cloth. The coat is cut on full kimono lines, with the fulness caught into small straps like semi-belts that are posed only over the hips. With Spring advancing, this model should find a multitude of uses in one's wardrobe.

STOCK BROKERS' FAILURES ARE NEAR 50 MARK

Employer of Beauvais, Guide in Stillman Case, in Assignment

By Associated Press.

New York, March 2.—The list of Wall Street brokerage house failures climbed toward the fifty mark today.

Scott & Stuup, a Consolidated Exchange house, went into bankruptcy shortly after the market opened and a short time later, Osborne Hall champs, successor to Friedman, Markelson & Co., an outside house, with a large branch in Montreal, announced an assignment for the benefit of creditors.

Deschamps is well known in Montreal, where he had brokerage offices under the name of Deschamps & Co. Fred Beauvais, correspondent in the Stillman divorce case, also said to have been in his employ there as of late man.

Friedman, Markelson & Co. recently suspended operations and the three partners were arrested on charges of grand larceny preferred by Deschamps, who also instituted civil action to recover $16,000.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy, without an estimate of liabilities or assets, was filed against M. E. and J. W. Desguera, Broadway stock brokers.

"The great number of failures among brokerage houses during the past month, together with the agitation against them," says a statement by attorneys for Scott & Stump, "has created an extreme distrust of brokers among customers and has caused a run on a great number of houses.

A rough estimate of the assets shows quick assets of about $750,000, and slow assets of at least $200,000, although the value of the latter under a forced sale is problematical. The liabilities of the firm amount to about $300,000."

BACKS CURLEY'S FIGHT FOR LEGISLATION

The United Improvement Association, meeting at the City Club backed Mayor Curley in all of the legislation he is fighting for, including five-cent carfare. Legislation favoring the lower fare, abolition of the present tax limit for the city of Boston and the recommendation of Mayor Curley that $10,000 be appropriated to the City Planning Board for a study of the Metropolitan system appropriated to the City Planning Board for a study of the Metropolitan system of transportation and streets, was unanimously adopted.

GREECE FREES FRENCH CRAFT WARSHIP SEIZED

Athens, March 2.—Greece has released the French steamship Espoir, which was seized by a Greek torpedo boat destroyer off the coast of Asia Minor on February 12. The Espoir sailed from there after her cargo had been discharged. France's action in the seizure aroused intense excitement in Athens, the cargo of the Espoir's cargo has been communicated to the Foreign Office by the French Minister.

MILLION CARTRIDGES GO UP IN QUEBEC BLAZE

Quebec, March 2.—Fire in the cartridges factory, a branch of the Dominion Arsenal, raged through the magazine building, destroying 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition, which exploded within a few rods of tons of high explosives.

The cartridge factory lies between the drill hall and the citadel. Only small quantities of powder in the building and the wind was blowing toward the citadel and not in the direction of nearby wooden buildings containing large quantities of high explosives.

TREATY ATTACK LAUNCHED BY HITCHCOCK

Says He Won't Vote for Four-Power Pacific Pact Except With Reservation

By International News Service.

Washington, March 2.—The expected attack on the four-power Pacific treaty was opened in the Senate today by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Hitchcock served notice he would not vote to ratify the treaty unless a reservation were attached to it which would expressly stipulate that Congress must reagent to any future agreement or understanding reached under it.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

Orrie writes: "I have been taking salts to purify my blood and cure my skin of itching and pimples, but I can get much benefit. Please prescribe for this."

Answer: I advise three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur) composed of sulphur, cream of tartar and vegetable extracts that remove constipation and purify the system. Take this treatment for several months for best results.

"Norma" writes: "I want your free advice. I seem to have gone all to pieces. I am irritated and excited by dizzy moments, nervousness, flabby appetite, no strength and life has no pleasures for me any more."

Answer: There are thousands who live too fast and then find themselves in your plight. The nervous vigor has been demined. A tonic ingredient medicine called Cadomene tablets will afford aid to Nature by supplying more food-energy and give your system a chance to recuperate, when calm nerves should take the place of shattered nerves.

"Laborer" asks: "I am so afflicted with painful kidneys that I cannot work regularly. My sleep is disturbed by frequent urination, and I pass small amounts and follows burning, smarting pains. Backaches and often have chills and fever, making me real sick for a day."

Answer: A good tonic, soothing and neutralizing medicine for your complaints is Ralmwort tablets. Get them and continue a few weeks and I am sure you will write me of your recovery.

"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly embarrassed because of the fact of my extreme thinness. I have absolutely no color in my face and lips and I am dull and lifeless most of the time. Please advise me what to do."

Answer: If you are so thin and sale and your lips and cheeks are colorless it is because your blood is so deficient in red corpuscles. This can be easily overcome by the use of three-grain Hypo-Nuclane Tablets, which can be had from any druggist in sealed cartons of fifty tablets for taking. When the blood is enriched by the use of these tablets your weight will increase.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Get a 2½ oz. package of essence Menthoxtene and make up according to directions on bottle. Then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is relieved. It makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup.

Mrs. M. asks: "My scalp itches terribly, is feverish and a great amount of oily dandruff is present. What is good for it?"

Answer: Apply plain yellow Mineral oil once a week as per directions. This relieves the itching, overcomes the dandruff and makes the hair beautifully glossy and vigorous. Obtain the oil at any druggists.

"Sick M. G." writes: "I have been afflicted for some months with rheumatism and have taken much medicine and found no relief. Perhaps you can."

Answer: The most efficient prescription I have ever given for rheumatism is: Iodide of potassium 4 drams, sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; compound essence of sarsaparilla, enough to make 4 ounces. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and at bedtime.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

No More Gas in Stomach & Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in the stomach and bowels, take Baalmann's Gas-Tablets.

Baalmann's Gas-Tablets are prepared distinctly for stomach gas, and for all the bad effects coming from gas pressure.

That empty and gnawing feeling at pit of your stomach disappears, that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath, often prevented by gas pressing against your heart and lungs.

Your limbs, arms and fingers won't feel cold, and go to sleep because Baalmann's Gas-Tablets prevent gas interfering with the circulation; drowsiness, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for some form of entertainment. Your distended stomach will reduce because gas will not form after using Baalmann's Gas-Tablets.

NAVAL RESERVE BILL DRAFTED BY DENBY

Merchant Marine Section and Emblem Are Among Proposals

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 2.—Complete reorganization of the naval reserve is proposed in a tentative bill prepared by the Navy Department and forwarded to officials of the Naval Reserve Association by Secretary Denby for comment before it is presented to Congress.

Included in the proposed act is the provision for a merchant marine reserve section and for certain merchant marine reserve section and for certain merchant ships to fly a reserve emblem.

REORGANIZATION PLANS.

The bill would abolish all existing naval or marine corps reserve and establish a naval reserve as a "component part" of the navy, consisting of three classes, the fleet reserve, the merchant marine naval reserve and the volunteer naval reserve.

A separate section provides for reorganization of the present marine corps reserve in conformity with the new plan. It would have two classes corresponding to the fleet reserve and the volunteer reserve of the naval establishment.

All present members of the various classes of naval reservists, both officers and men, and the naval militia would be brought into the new system.

Enlistments in the reserve would be for four years, while officers would hold their commissions "during the pleasure of the President."

Reservists of the first two classes could be ordered to duty by the President in time of war or national emergency, to serve throughout the war or emergency, but in time of peace could be called out only with their own consent, except for prescribed training. The volunteer reserve would be liable for war duty only.

SERVICE BENEFITS.

While on active duty, except training, they would receive the pay and allowances of their rank or grade in the regular service and a $100 clothing gratuity would go to each officer when commissioned in the fleet reserve, with an additional $50 allowance for each succeeding four years of service. In time of war every reserve officer would receive $150 for uniforms.

Any officer or enlisted man of the reserve injured in line of duty while on active, training or volunteer service would be entitled to regular service benefits.

In peace time the fleet reserve would be required to give fifteen days' training service annually, receiving regular pay for that period. Those on actual flying duty for training would receive the naval flying pay scale.

RODRIGUEZ IS HELD AS CONSPIRATOR

El Paso, Tex., March 2.—Shorn of the military trappings which he had worn one month ago when he led a forlorn hope into Mexico, General Nicholas Rodriguez, youthful rebel chieftain, appeared before United States Commissioner J. W. Schnid in custody of Department of Justice agents.

A plea of guilty was entered by Rodriguez to the charges against him by Federal officers. They alleged that he conspired while in the United States to start an uprising in Mexico. His bond was set at $10,000. In default of this amount he was remanded to jail.

MEN MUST SALUTE AT NAVY YARD

Owing to the fact that he has noticed that many officers either fail to return the salutes of enlisted men or do so in a very unmilitary manner, Rear Admiral Henry A. Wiley, commandant of the First Naval District and of the Charlestown Navy Yard, has issued an order on hand salutes, which referes to both officers and men.

Rear Admiral Wiley informs the officers to insist on a salute from the men and that they must return the salute in a military manner. No salute, he says, may be made with a hand in a pocket.

TWO BOSTON BUSINESS MEN IN BANKRUPTCY

James Magann of North Beacon street, this city, horse dealer, filed a voluntary petition in the Federal Court, his liabilities being $3,080.74 and no assets. The debts are for judgments by fourteen creditors who are named in the petition.

Louis Cohen, Boston, was petitioned into bankruptcy by three creditors, whose claims total $1,429. The creditors are Napoleon Bergeron, Medford, promissory note, $650; Nathan Barron, Boston, promissory note, $500, and Murrey Cohen, Boston, merchandise and money loaned, $379.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop immediately, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

MacNIDER SAYS BONUS COST IS EXAGGERATED

Emphasizes That Adjusted Compensation Bill Originated With Congress

By HANFORD MacNIDER, National Commander of the American Legion.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

Washington, March 2.—The American Legion in asking that the adjusted compensation bill be passed wants it clearly understood that this legislation originated with Congress. At the request of Congress the Legion worked out from a great number of suggested plans the present five-fold compensation bill. The Legion feels that by such constructive features as those which embody farm and home aid, vocational training, land reclamation and settlement and paid-up insurance would add to the returning service man's ability to become a more constructive citizen. The Legion still feels that way.

COL. HANFORD MacNIDER.

The adjusted pay, or cash feature, allowing 40 per cent less than any of the other options, was framed to take care of the man who, because of unemployment or ill fortune, would not be able to take advantage of the others. The payments of fifty dollars once every three months certainly do not form as desirable a compensation, compared to the great benefits so well defined in the name of the others.

COST EXAGGERATED.

The cost to the government has been in a great many financial journals grossly exaggerated. Were half of the men affected to choose the cash feature, it would not exceed four hundred million dollars the first year. This is no extraordinary expenditure on the part of the government. What is more, the money is not going to vanish. It naturally will be turned into the business of the community. And with that put into homes, farms, education in skilled professions and employment which land reclamation calls for, it is all going to help build up the economic fabric of the nation.

The Legion feels this to be a just obligation. The offerings of a man's life and his services with the colors at least should receive equal consideration with the services of contractors, manufacturers and shipping interests.

These obligations have been or are being paid and they are undoubtedly proper debts, but the obligation to the veteran still remains and will remain until some adjustment is made. Whenever and wherever the question has been put to the people they have answered in a way no one could misunderstand.

HOLDS TO PROMISES.

In asking for the passage of this legislation the American Legion feels it is only urging the fulfillment of promises liberally made but hesitatingly carried out. We believe the nation wants the great excessive population to feel that they are loved and shall have fair play and a square deal.

It is safe to say that further demands never will be presented by the American Legion, the proposition of adjusted compensation come from Congress. The American Legion feels that for the good of all concerned, it should be carried out.

MASS MEETING FOR BONUS SUNDAY

tions. Everybody was familiar with the subject matter. All said it was not necessary to read the body of the petition. They felt that it was high time that the men who fought in the World War were properly treated by the Federal government.

If members of Congress opposed to the bonus could have witnessed the eagerness with which the average man and woman signed the petition and heard the remarks that accompanied the signing, they probably would change their minds as to whether or not the people are for the act.

In Boston alone today more than 4,000 signatures were obtained.

HUSBAND NEAR DEATH WHEN WIFE FOUND HIM

When Max Rososky, fifty-three, a hat manufacturer of Beaver street, Roxbury, failed to appear for breakfast today his wife went to his room, opened the door and found him lying in a pool of blood on the floor. He had slashed his throat with a razor. His wife notified the police and he was taken to the City Hospital. He will recover. The police investigated the case and said despondency was the cause of Rososky's act.

HUNDREDS OF LETTERS URGE THE BONUS

All Endorse Sales Tax as Fair Way in Which to Raise Money

Hundreds of letters have flooded the Petition Editor of the Boston American from all over New England demanding that Congress fulfill its promise to the soldiers and sailors who fought to save civilization, and give them some compensation by means of a bonus.

All of the letters endorse the sales tax method as a fair way to raise the money to pay the bonus. Civic organizations are passing resolutions endorsing the bonus bill and commending the Boston American for its efforts on behalf of the ex-service men.

From Pawtucket, R. I., comes a letter announcing that the South Woodlawn Social Club has unanimously endorsed the bonus bill and sales tax method.

CLUB UNANIMOUS.

The letter is signed by John B. Cooney, secretary, and reads as follows:

The South Woodlawn Social Club of No. 943 Main street, Pawtucket, R. I., heartily endorses the campaign of the Boston American for the passage of the pending soldiers' compensation act, and recognizes the sales tax method as the most suitable means of raising the funds necessary to finance same.

We pride ourselves in not having one opponent among us and as material proof, we herewith submit 158 names to be added to those who are already included in your enormous petition to Congress.

This organization remembers well the efforts of the Boston American in behalf of the ex-service men in the past and wishes it success in its present patriotic undertaking.

PATHETIC LETTERS.

Pathetic letters of men, who fought in the muddy trenches abroad during the war and who are now walking the streets in search of work, are received in every mail. These men tell of the good jobs they had before entering the service; how they sacrificed all to join the colors, and how they ran into debt for Uncle Sam.

Now they ask that they be compensated for the time they gave to "Save Democracy," to "Save the World," to "Down the Kaiser," etc., etc.

Here is a typical letter from a Boston man who served in the 103rd Infantry:

I have read with great interest your fight for the soldiers' bonus. I look at it this way: Whatever the soldiers get is not any present. It is what we have earned. It is for the sacrifice we made while serving in the trenches, while thousands of others were getting big pay as they tell about at the present time.

"SOLDIER MUST BEG."

The business man fattened his pocketbook on the man who bore the brunt of the war. A person might give to the country every cent he owned, though it may be millions, but it is as nothing when compared with the sacrifice of the man who bares his breast to the enemy in no man's land.

Now to say it all the poor, unfortunate soldier has had to go begging on the streets to get enough for his needs. The Congress and business men of America should be ashamed. They managed to raise plenty of money to fight the Huns. Is the best they can offer us on our return from the war, alms on the streets?

$50 FOR EACH SOLDIER BY BONUS PLAN

Direct Cash Payment Followed by Loan Policy Worked Out by Committee

By International News Service.

Washington, March 2.—Every former soldier of the World War will be granted a cash bonus of $50 direct from the United States Treasury if he wants it, under the new plan worked out today by the bonus section of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Above $50 the soldier beneficiary would be required to take an insurance policy carrying a loan feature. National banks, banking associations and trust companies coming under federal supervision would be required to discount these policies for 50 per cent. of their face value for a period of three years from date of issue.

"There was complete agreement it was said, among the seven members of the committee's bonus section on this plan, and Congressional leaders were confident that ultimately the bonus would be paid on these terms, in terms closely approximating them.

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board and treasury experts were again before the committee today. They estimated the $50 cash feature of the new plan will not require more than $16,000,000 from the treasury the first year. This could be easily absorbed.

DRUGGISTS HERE WATCHED BY DRY AGENTS

Potter Keeps After Them to Stamp Out Use of Forged Prescriptions

Dispatches from Washington indicating that federal prohibition officials are starting a drive in Chicago to stamp out lax methods used by prescription druggists in handling liquor prescriptions drew from Prohibition Director Elmer C. Potter today the announcement that local authorities have been conducting a similar drive for several months.

In Chicago, according to the dispatches, the chief trouble lay in the ready acceptance by the druggist of forged prescriptions. Here, Potter says, steady vigilance has stopped the use of these forgeries. But the director added that his force is obliged to arrest two or three druggists every week for violating the prohibition law in other ways.

"A lot of druggists, who have a considerable stock of whiskey and rum on hand to meet their prescription calls, don't issue nearly all of this stock on prescriptions," he said. "Many of them are selling it to persons they know to be 'all right,' just as any other speak-easy does. They sell only a small portion of it on prescriptions.

"Other druggists sell pure alcohol to their customers. They have their supply of alcohol for making up prescriptions, of course, and issue it only in half-pint and pint quantities. We have been after them ever since the middle of the Fall, and we're gradually stopping it."

A few druggists were arrested here last Summer for using forged prescriptions, Potter said. They were prosecuted on simple forgery charges.

The original workers for Mayor Curley in his campaign will meet tonight at the Crawford House to organize the 12-13-21 Club. They will probably elect Mayor Curley as honorary president. The name of the club to for the day upon which the Mayor was elected to office, December 13, 1921. They will meet each month and will have representatives from each district in the city as speakers. The new club, it is thought, will lay the foundation of a new city committee to take the place of the present one.

RESTAURANT MAN SUES TO STOP PICKETING

Joseph Frieber, president of the St. Regis Hotel and Restaurant Company, Incorporated, with a chain of Boston eating places, today brought suit in Superior Court against officers and members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes' Union, Local 312, seeking an injunction to prevent them from picketing his places of business. Frieber alleges that the union has attempted to force him to replace non-union waitresses with union members, by threatening to put him out of business.

THOUSANDS IN CHICAGO GET MAY 1 RENT RAISES

Chicago, March 2.—Notices of May 1 rent increases were in the hands of thousands of Chicago tenants today, notwithstanding the present high rent levels. YOUNG BANDITS ROB TROLLEY CAR CREW

Escape With Few Dollars After Holdup on Outskirts of Providence

Providence, R. I., March 2.—Two youthful bandits, armed with pistols held up and robbed the conductor and motorman of a trolley car at Rival Mills, just outside this city, today. The fair made their escape with a few dollars in change.

The men boarded the car just before it reached the end of the line. There were no other passengers. When the car reached the Mills and Motorman Dennis Mahoney went to switch the trolley the bandits flashed their pistols and covered the crew. From Conductor William Plooty they took a pocketful of silver. From Mahoney they got a small amount of change.

With a final flourish of their guns, the bandits fled. A search of the surrounding woods revealed no trace of the bandits.

GIRL IS FREED IN $1,000,000 LIQUOR CASE

Panel Trying Man and Woman Decides After 24 Hours Only One Is Guilty

New York, March 2.—After nearly twenty-four hours of deliberation, the Federal jury which has been considering the case of Edward Donegan and Miss Regina Sassone, charged with conspiring to defraud the government on a wholesale scale by trafficking in stolen liquor withdrawal permits, asked Judge Webb whether it could acquit one defendant and find the other guilty. The court ruled that it could, as the indictments charged conspiracy between Donegan and Miss Sassone and "others unknown." The nurses then found Donegan guilty and acquitted the girl.

The government charged that Donegan had made more than $1,000,000 through liquor frauds. Character of the girl, formerly a clerk in the prohibition director's office, was the unfortunate instrument and tool, the court pointed out, that the jurors could recommend mercy in her case.

The defendants were alleged to have maintained headquarters at a local hotel, where they manipulated withdrawal permits so that 1,000 barrels of beer and 24,000 cases of liquor were taken each week from Federal warehouses.

PERSHING, THE 'WATCH CAT,' FOILS BREAK

Three Roxbury Boys Afterward Discovered by Squad of Watertown Police

When a back window creaked in Fletcher's hardware store, Mt. Auburn street, Watertown, Pershing, the chinchilla cat, left his comfortable bed in the ten-penny nail bin and got anxious.

It was an odd hour and an odd manner for the boss to come in.

Pershing moved window-ward and his hair stood up like fur on a new muff. When the window suddenly slammed open Pershing shot out.

There was a muffled "Gee whiz, wot was dat?" and the sound of scurrying heels. A dog barked, and then a deep sergeant at the Watertown police station turned and reached for the telephone. Ten minutes later he was scouring the neighborhood of Fletcher's store. To the right and left his trusty posse moved with drawn guns.

Thirty minutes later from a culvert down by the railroad track the police hauled out three very sleepy and very youthful Roxburyites. They were John Meehan, nine years old, of Oregon street; Ernest Carroll, thirteen years old, Conant street, and George Mahan, fourteen years old, of Longwood avenue.

Their parents will bring them into Juvenile Court in Waltham on Tuesday. There the judge may convince them that "Pershing" was not a "flying ghost."

The Joy of a Perfect Skin

Few women realize the importance of a clear, smooth, unblemished complexion nor do they know how to quickly and safely attain this asset of beauty.

There's a wonderful skin beautifier and blemish remover, known as "Beauty Bleach," which removes all skin discolorations such as tan, freckles, or brown blotches and prevents blackheads and pimples. This cosmetic is very pleasing to use and will not harm the most delicate skin texture. Just a bit applied upon retiring and the skin is made velvety and soft.

Black and White Soap and Black and White "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder used in connection with Beauty Bleach insures a complexion that is youthfully pink and white.

Send to Dept. NY., Plough, Memphis, Tenn., 10c and the name and address of six friends and receive a genuine oiderdown powderpuff containing a two week's supply of "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder and complimentary literature on Beauty Bleach.

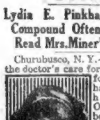
SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That. Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony

Churubusco, N. Y.—"I was under the doctor's care for over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."—Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.



It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see its value in the case of Mrs. Miner.

All ailing women ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.

WASHBURN SEES LITTLE CHANCE FOR LODGE

Declares Friends of Senator Can Assume Nothing; Walker Fight Vigorous

Friends of United States Senator Lodge, who is up for re-election, can "assume nothing and should immediately depart for a training camp," declared Robert Washburn, addressing the Twentieth Century Association.

He said in part: "The Massachusetts Historical Society will not determine the issue. First, Mr. Walker has many friends and will make a vigorous campaign. Then is bound to soar Mr. Lodge far Monday is not an entirely happy day in the best of times, as the lingerie lingers on the line.

"Second, the Democratic party is united, and will present a strong candidate in either Mr. Peters or John F. Moors. The latter would specifically personify the great issue of the Wilson League. He always grandfathers before a portrait of Woodrow Wilson before he retires. The genteel Democrats never go to bed, they retire.

"Third, there will be a third ticket standing on a platform of endorsement of the law of the Wilson foundation. Not Woodrow, but Harold. Those votes will come out of the Republican party. So that Mr. Lodge's friends can assume nothing.

"Mr. Fuller has now established himself as a political acrobat, once eloquent in describing Mr. Lodge as a "senile wheel," and Mr. Cox as "one of the crew of porch climbers" he is now their ardent advocate."

Archibald Marcus, told of experiences on board the Shipping Board Steamer Western Hero, when the vessel became disabled and drifted for many days with food and fuel exhausted.

LAWYER SUES GAMBLERS FOR $150,000

Estate of Hub Man Is Among Property Attached by New Bedford Victim

Providence, March 2.—The bank accounts of several alleged prominent gamblers have been attached for a total of $500,000 by Attorney Edward T. Hanrahan of New Bedford, who alleged he lost $150,000 in Rhode Island gaming rooms.

Among those attached are those of Frank L. Murray and August A. Schaller of East Greenwich, James E. Moran of Providence, Jacob L. Vogel, East Providence, and Charles L. Manchester, R. I.

Writs of attachment were issued by the Federal Court and served by United States Marshal William H. Redhead.

The writs are in connection with the suit brought by Attorney Hannon to recover $150,000 he alleges he lost in games of chance. They are returnable March 15.

Among the property attached is the estate of the late Michael J. Slattery, formerly of Boston, who was for years well known in the sporting world.

The Hill Top Inn and the Updike Hotel, both in East Greenwich, and the Pilgrim Club at Cranston and the Old Fenner Stand at Johnston are among the other properties affected by the attachments. Other writs are to be levied, it is reported.

Hannon, supported by Rev. J. Frank Chase of the Massachusetts Watch and Ward Society, prosecuted a gambling charge against James Connelly, one of the owners of the Hill Top Inn. The action has never been concluded.

Curley Prepares for High Pressure Water Main Breaks

To protect the city from possible breaks in the high pressure water mains, Mayor Curley has ordered that the in-town fire companies and the emergency crews of the Water Department be informed of the location and the methods of operating the gates of the mains.

A break in one of the big mains would mean enormous water damage in the downtown section of the city, especially in the basements of large department stores.

A district chief and a hose wagon will respond to every emergency call, fully equipped, for such repair duty. The emergency wagon of the Water Department will also be on call.

MOTHER OF 3 IS BURNED BY EXPLOSION

Mrs. Wilhelmina McFarland of No. 61 Rutland street, South End, mother of three small children, was severely burned about the body and arms today when she attempted to put out a blaze in a closet of her home.

According to the police, a bottle containing some inflammable substance exploded in the closet. Hearing the explosion, Mrs. McFarland hurried to the closet and opened the door. Flames rushed out and her clothing was ablaze in a moment.

Patrolman Cullen of the East Dedham street police station, who had heard the explosion, rushed in and helped Mrs. McFarland. She was removed to the City Hospital.

CONSERVATORY ORCHESTRA IN FINE CONCERT

Celebrates 20th Anniversary by Rendering Program at Symphony Hall

By FRED J. McISAAC.

The New England Conservatory Orchestra celebrated its twentieth anniversary last night in Symphony Hall by a very interesting concert. The orchestra is one hundred strong, as large as most symphony orchestras, and is composed entirely of the faculty of the conservatory and the most skillful pupils.

Wallace Goodrich conducted most of the program, but George W. Chadwick, president of the conservatory, and America's foremost composer, led the band in his two symphonic sketches, "Noel" and "Jubilee."

The program was largely American in character, our own composers have their inning at conservatory concerts. Henry Hadley's Symphony in F minor "The Four Seasons," was represented by the first movement, "Winter." Frederick Converse's "Festival of Pan," a romance for orchestra, and the MacDowell concerto in D minor for piano and orchestra was performed. Miss Susan Williams played the first movement and Miss Mary Madden the second and third.

Arthur Foote, Horatio Parker and Mabel Daniels were represented in a group of numbers for female chorus and orchestra.

Norma Jean Erdmann sang an aria from "Louise" and Elizabeth Bingham sang the air of Elsa from "Lohengrin."

The orchestra is a superb instrument. With all due regard for our own composers in this country, they have written very little worth playing by such an organization.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Former Munn Sisters Active in Palm Beach Affairs

By BETTY ALDEN.

THOSE two attractive sisters, Mrs. Reginald Boardman (Carrie Munn) and Mrs. Charles Minot Amory (Gladys Munn) spend so much of their time travelling about, that their Boston homes see very little of them. It is hard to know where they may be found—perhaps sojourning on the Riviera, yachting off Cowes, England, or wintering at Palm Beach, while now and then finds the Amorys in Washington or Boston, and the Reginald Boardmans at their home on Marlboro street.

At present both Mrs. "Reggie" Boardman and her sister are enjoying the tropical weather at Palm Beach, where, of course, they have taken a most active part in the social activities of the smart set, selecting the Florida resort as its favorite stamping ground. In fact, it was only last week that Mrs. Boardman and Mr. and Mrs. Amory served on the committee in charge of the colorful bathing suit revue. This event brought out no less than 5,000 spectators, all of whom—at least the feminine portion—"oohed" and "ahed" most enthusiastically at the unusual array of costumes de la mere parading before them. Prizes were awarded for the nattiest suits.

All society remembers the marriage—about a decade ago—of Miss Carrie Louise Munn, daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Munn, to Reginald Boardman, son of T. Dennis Boardman. The ceremonial took place in St. John's Episcopal Church in Washington, the Winter home of the bride, and the entire social and official "who's who" of the capital, including the Presidential circle, was represented among the guests.

Mrs. Charles A. Munn, Jr., and Gladys Munn—now Mrs. Amory—served as matron and maid-of-honor, respectively. Among the bridesmaids was Miss Ethel Roosevelt, which recalled the report circulated two years previously to the Munn-Boardman nuptial that Miss Roosevelt's brother, Theodore, Jr., was engaged to Miss Carrie Munn. This report had been denied immediately, however, dying the rather sudden death of so many reports.

Mr. Boardman brought most of his attendants for the ceremonial from Boston—Eugene Van Rensselaer Thayer serving as best man, and the ushers including John S. Ames, Arthur Adams, James Jackson and Richard DeBois Boardman, all of Boston, Gurnee Munn of Washington, a brother of the bride, was another usher.

Mrs. Charles Munn (Carrie L. Channel is known almost as well among the elite of Boston as of Washington, for she spends not a little of her time at her Manchester-by-the-Sea estate. Her Winter residence is on Scott Circle, Washington.

About two years after the Munn-Boardman ceremonial came the marriage of Miss Gladys Munn to Charles Minot Amory. The wedding of the younger sister offered quite a contrast to that of the former Carrie Munn's, for it was solemnized at the Manchester-by-the-Sea home of the bride's mother. It was owing to the illness of Mrs. Munn that only the relatives of the two families were present. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Charles Munn, had no bridesmaids. Francis I. Amory, Jr., served as best man for his brother. There were no ushers, as no reception was held.

But to return once more to the endless chain of gayeties enmeshing the fashionable world at Palm Beach. There was no end of interest in the annual costume dance held on Wednesday evening at the Everglades Club for the members and their friends. Dancing began at 11 o'clock, followed by supper at 1 o'clock.

It was a gala occasion, indeed, the smartest of the smart turning out for the event. Those in charge had done their best to make the clubhouse as attractive as possible, nor did they lack success. The entire lower floor of the club and the veranda overlooking Lake Worth had been made to represent a Venetian garden scene. The entire arrangement had been carried out so effectively that the crowd of dancers who attended were quite entranced with the rare beauty of the sight.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT P. HERRICK, JR. (Thelma Hall) have returned to Boston from their honeymoon spent to the Far East. The young people were married last October at Emmanuel Church, their wedding being among the smartest of the many Fall nuptial events. Mr. Herrick is a graduate of Harvard '16. His bride, who has won quite a bit of distinction as an artist, is a member of the Sewing Circle and the Vincent Club.

Mrs. Edward H. James will open her home at No. 46 Mt. Vernon street on Friday afternoon, March 10, at four o'clock for the talk on "What the Gandhi Movement Means to Young India and to the World." The speaker will be Swami Yogananda Giri, and it is also expected that Joseph P. Pulan, a business man from Fall River, who has just returned from India and who had a personal interview there with the remarkable leader, Mahatma Gandhi, will speak on "A New England Business Man's Impression of Gandhi and His Teachings." A group of prominent matrons are included on the list of patronesses for the occasion.

To benefit the Children's Friend Society, Mrs. F. Head Estabrook of Chestnut Hill has arranged that movies be given for boys and girls at the Exeter Theatre next Saturday morning, and again on Saturday morning, March 25. Miss Katherine Coolidge will have charge of a group of debutantes who will serve as ushers. A large number of society women are lending their names as patronesses for these two "movie" performances.

Mrs. B. Sumner Welles (Esther Slater) of New York and Washington, and formerly of Boston, was among the passengers sailing from Cherbourg for New York, aboard the Cunard liner Aquitania. Mrs. Welles, who is the daughter of Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater, had among her fellow passengers Professor and Mrs. W. M. Bayliss, Sir Frederick and Lady Becker and Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hall of Boston are spending a few days at the new Ambassador Hotel in New York.

Miss Martha Peabody, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Peabody, has come from Milton for a month in the South. The Peabody estate in Milton is known as "Highfield."

Mrs. Rene E. Paine of Brookline has joined the Boston colony at Palm Beach, where she is stopping at The Breakers.

Mr. and Mrs. William Laird Orr (Constance Amee) who, since their marriage last April, have had an apartment on Craigie Circle, Cambridge, have left for Montclair, New Jersey. Mr. Orr has taken up new business connections, so that the couple will make their home there. Mrs. Orr is the elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Lincoln Ames of Chestnut street.

NEXT PARLIAMENT AT OTTAWA TO BE LARGER

Ottawa, March 2.—Canada's next Parliament will have ten additional members as a result of the new census. The present Parliament has 235 members; the next will have 245. Nova Scotia and Ontario will lose one member each. Quotas of other eastern provinces remain unchanged, but the western provinces will make big gains.

TREATY FOREIGN, SENATE FOES DECLARE

Ideas, Notes and Drafting Un-American, Irreconcilables Say in Opening Clash

By WILLIAM HARD,
Cosmopolitan News Service Staff Correspondent.
Copyright 1922.

Washington, March 2.—The four-power treaty begins to take the centre of the Senate floor. On inquiry among the remaining and surviving irreconcilables, I gather they will recount their reminiscences of the origins of this treaty.

They will attempt to show that its origins are not American. They will relate the fact that the first rumor ever heard of any such treaty was in speeches made on interviews given out by the Prime Ministers of Australia and New Zealand. They will relate that last year certain highly important Canadian statesmen sent a messenger to Washington. This messenger conferred with Senators and expressed Canadian opposition to the Anglo-Japanese alliance. That was the prologue, containing no initiative by America.

VISIT TO WASHINGTON.

Then a representative of the British Foreign Office visited Washington without declared mission or errand. He intimated to influential persons here that an expansion of the Anglo-Japanese alliance to include America would be a happy solution of all difficulties in the Pacific. Then came the speeches of Lloyd George in London.

Then came the publication of the agenda for the conference at Washington on limitation of armament and on far eastern questions. This agenda was made by the American government. It contained no intimation whatsoever of any American purpose of entering into any expanded alliance or agreement in the Pacific. The project was still not American.

Then came Mr. Balfour bearing certain notes of memoranda to Washington. They contained suggestions for a three-power treaty. It was to be a treaty between Britain, Japan and the United States. Mr. Balfour's notes were shown to representatives of Japan, and of the United States. Representatives of the United States suggested the inclusion of France. That idea seems to have been American.

Negotiations proceeded. Presently there were four sets of notes for a treaty; or, at any rate, there were at least three sets, those of Balfour, those of Hughes and those of Shidehara.

DEMAND FOR DETAILS.

The final draft of the treaty will be found to be the final agreement of these persons. So it will be said in the Senate.

Senators will then demand that the accounts of these negotiations be published.

The first effort of Senators opposed to the treaty will be to try to show that the idea of the treaty is foreign, that the first notes for it were foreign, that the wording of the final draft was foreign and that the negotiations for America were concluded by just one person.

Such will be their first drive at the treaty. It is strategically considered and it may result in a very long debate.

MONUMENTS IN EUROPE TO TELL A. E. F. HISTORY

Washington, March 2.—Erection of nine monuments in Europe to mark places of special interest and historical importance in the service of the American expeditionary forces is contemplated in the memorial plans of the War Department, for which President Harding has requested legislation by Congress, in addition to the more than one hundred map monuments proposed.

Sisters in beauty

Two pretty girls, sharing the same beauty secret, although one lived 3,000 years ago. Girls who both know that a fresh, smooth, radiant skin is not only woman's greatest charm, but one within the reach of every woman.

For pretty girls used Palmolive in the days of ancient Egypt, just as they do today. The crude combination of palm and olive oils which served as beautifying cleanser was the inspiration of the familiar Palmolive cake, famous for its mildness the world over.

Modern science, with all its progress, can find no milder, more soothing cleanser than these two ancient oils. It can only perfect their combination and offer it in the most efficient and convenient form.

Gives a perfect skin

To state that just washing your face every day will give you that all-desired, fresh, smooth skin may sound too simple to be true. But such cleanliness is the foundation of complexion beauty, for this reason:

The accumulations of dirt, oil and perspiration, cold cream and powder must be removed or they will collect and clog the tiny pores which compose the surface of the skin.

Such clogging enlarges, which soon results in coarse texture, and the imbedded dirt causes blackheads, and when it carries infection, eruptions follow.

There is no beauty in such a neglected skin, which reply when it should attract, and prevents popularity and social success.

Soothes while it cleanses

Some women will complain that soap is too harsh, that it ages and dries their skins. This proves they are using the wrong soap.

The smooth, creamy lather of Palmolive soothes while it cleanses. It removes every trace of injurious dirt and skin accumulations and secretions, leaving the face becomingly soft and smooth, with radiant freshness and natural color.

The use of cosmetics isn't harmful if the basis is a skin that is thoroughly, healthfully clean. In case of dryness, apply your favorite cold cream both before and after washing.

Not for face alone

Don't forget that your neck and throat are also conspicuous for skin beauty or the lack of it, and that this is where age first shows.

Arms and shoulders should be kept smooth and white and hands must be beautified.

Use Palmolive for bathing and these results are insured, with the comfort of a skin which always feels luxuriously smooth.

Not extravagant at the price

If Palmolive was a very expensive soap, such advice would mean extravagance. But the firm, long wearing cake of generous size costs only 10 cents.

The reason is gigantic production which keeps the Palmolive factories working day and night and the importation of the bland, mild oils in the vast volume which reduces cost.

Thus this finest facial soap, which if made in small quantities would cost at least 25 cents, is offered at the popular price which all can afford for every toilet purpose.

STATE MOVES TO CURB DRUG PEDLARS

Resolves Calling on Congress to Legislate Are Reported to the House

Alarmed by the Boston American's amazing revelations on the illicit drug traffic here, the legislative Committee on Public Health today reported resolutions in the House, deploring the fast-growing menace, and asking Congress to reduce importations to the lowest amount necessary for medical purposes, and to distribute the drugs through federal agencies.

The resolutions are based on the recommendation of Governor Cox in his inaugural address that the Legislature act on the matter. Additional bills are under consideration by the committee to strengthen the law in Massachusetts.

One bill still under consideration is sponsored by Senator Pearson, and provides for proper medical treatment for drug addicts at a State institution, which is not provided at the present.

Another bill introduced by Representative Samuel H. Wragg of Needham, and supported by the Boston American, provides for a minimum penalty of one year in jail, and a maximum of five years for "dope" pedlars.

The resolutions reported today carry the suggestion that imports of opium and coca leaves, from which morphine, heroin, cocaine and other narcotics are derived, be reduced to the lowest amount requisite for medicinal purposes.

The resolutions read as follows:

"Whereas, the number of drug addicts in the United States has abnormally increased to such an extent as to become a serious menace to the health and welfare of the citizens of the country; and

"Whereas the importation of opium and coca leaves and their derivatives has increased beyond necessary proper medical requirements and a great proportion of such importations are illegally sold and distributed throughout the country, due to lack of sufficiently drastic Federal legislation; and

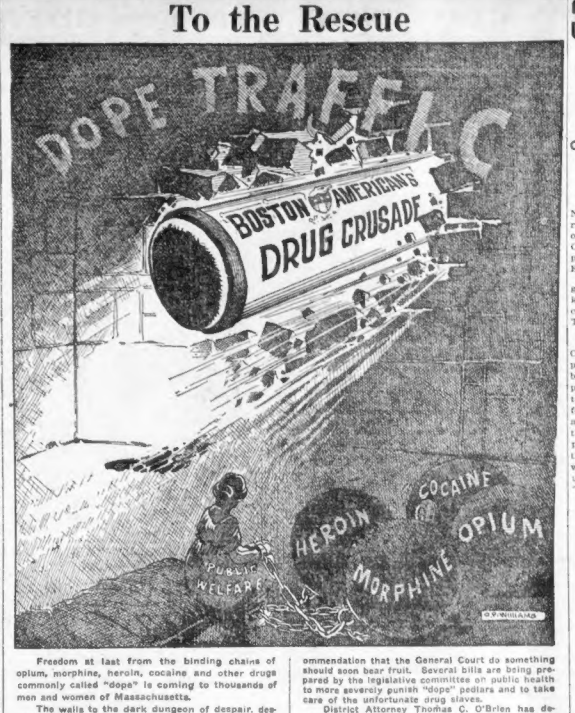
"Whereas, under the present Federal law it is impossible for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, without further assistance from the Federal government, to effectively curb the illicit drug traffic existing within its confines; and

"Whereas the lack of co-operation between the Federal government and the States and the absence of proper and effective legislation throughout the country has made possible the abnormal growth of the illicit drug traffic; therefore be it

"Resolved, that the Senate and House of Representatives of the Massachusetts urgently request Congress to pass such legislation as will provide for proper and effective Federal regulation of the importation of narcotic drugs and of the sale and distribution thereof, to the end that sufficient quantity thereof may be available only for proper, legitimate medical purposes through the establishment of properly regulated Federal distributing agencies, and be it further

"Resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent by the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the President of the United States, Vice-President, Speaker of the House of Representatives and the members in Congress from this Commonwealth."

To the Rescue



Freedom at last from the binding chains of opium, morphine, heroin, cocaine and other drugs commonly called "dope" is coming to thousands of men and women of Massachusetts.

The wails to the dark dungeon of despair, desolation and pains worse than death are being battered down. Official action has come after weeks of relentless war on the illicit drug traffic by the Boston American.

Governor Cox has seen the menace. His recommendation that the General Court do something should soon bear fruit. Several bills are being prepared by the legislative committee on public health to more severely punish "dope" pedlars and to take care of the unfortunate drug slaves.

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien has declared war on the scourge, and the police department has formed a narcotic squad to clean up the city. The battle is not over. But the machinery is in motion and the chains of bondage must be rent asunder.

O'BRIEN'S AIDES BEGIN TOUR OF INSTITUTIONS

Assistant District Attorneys Visit State Prison and Deer Island

At the request of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien has assistants today began a tour of inspection of the institutions to which defendants prosecuted by them may be sent.

"Get familiar with them," said the new district attorney.

So today the assistant district attorneys visited the State Prison and House of Correction at Deer Island. Tomorrow they will visit the reformatories at Concord and Sherborn and spend Saturday at the State Farm at Bridgewater.

O'Brien today conferred with assistants on the prosecution of the drug evil in Boston, and announced that addicts who show a sincerity of purpose to reform will be committed to the State Farm as probationers to stay until cured. No commitment papers will be made out in such cases.

District Attorney O'Brien also announced his policies. He will tolerate no nol-prossing of cases by assistants without his personal approval. Will have no interference with assistants when they are in court engaged in the trying of cases and will not allow assistants to postpone cases at the request of attorneys.

"The office will be conducted on strictly a business basis," he said.

He will assign two assistants to each session of court and designated Assistant District Attorney McCarty to prepare trial lists for each days session of the Superior Criminal Court. Attorneys engaged in various cases must talk to him and no one else about their particular case.

STRANGER CAN'T DODGE HOOTCH IN BOSTON

Bootleggers Just Won't Leave Them Alone, Says Man From Maine

Portland, Me., March 2.—"If you let me go I can tell you the names and addresses of 15 places in Boston where they are selling alcohol," Joseph Dirisky told Deputy Sheriff Morgan when Morgan placed him under arrest on a charge of violating the Prohibitory laws of the State.

"Men run up to you everywhere you go there,' the prisoner said, "and try to sell you alcohol when they know you are from another city. I paid fifteen dollars a gallon for my stuff."

Dirisky was arrested after the officer had seized a suit case containing four gallons of alcohol. He was fined $200 and costs.

TAR AND FEATHERS FOR 67-YEAR-OLD MAN

Shreveport, La., March 2.—Taken from his home in Cedar Grove by a band of unmasked men, William B. Gentry, sixty-seven years old, was ducked out of an automobile twenty minutes later at a street intersection here, clad only in his underclothes and a coat of tar and feathers. No reason for the attack was given.

Beaumont, Tex., March 2.—John Sullivan, dairyman, was taken out by a group of masked men and severely beaten. He was released in front of a newspaper office and commanded to report the incident to the editor. "They told me to tell you that they whipped me because I whipped my brother," he said.

INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO. EXHIBIT PLEASES

The second annual road exhibition of the International Silver Company, which has just closed at the Parker House, proved a great success and attracted a large attendance of the jewelry trade.

The purpose of the exhibition was to acquaint the trade and public with the development of the sterling silver business during the past year. Practically every article that can be made from the precious metal was shown. The list ranged from miniature toilet sets to elaborate candelabra worth a queen's ransom. The feature of the show was a severe-looking pigskin brief case which was christened "the banquet de luxe."

The secret of this masterpiece was revealed when, opened, it exposed three glistening silver flasks holding a quart each. The retail price of this handy contraption was announced at $200. That's all!

All told, there were twenty-seven trunkloads of sterling silver pieces and novelties on display. W. B. O'Brien, sales manager of the company, was in charge.

WOULD AID VETERANS TO GO BACK TO FARM

Washington, March 2.—Honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who want to farm found a champion in the House today. Representative Kiess of New York believes the "back-to-the-farm movement" should be encouraged among the veterans. He put before the House a proposal which would permit them direct application to Federal land banks for loans either to purchase or operate farms. Loans up to 75 per cent of the appraised value of the land would be granted under Kissel's bill.

LOWELL RAIDERS SEIZE STILL AND MOONSHINE

Lowell, March 2.—Directly under the windows of City Hall, police officers raided a place and got more than 1,000 gallons of mash and 20 gallons of moonshine whiskey. Mike Kostrantiontionis was arrested. He said he had been doing business with Nashua and Manchester dealers. At No. 12 Cross street, not far distant, the same officers found a 100-gallon still in full operation. The owner had disappeared.

15 SOLDIERS NEAR DEATH WHEN LAUNCH HITS REEF

New York, March 2.—Fifteen United States soldiers from Fort Totten had a narrow escape from death today when a launch in which they were returning from Fort Slocum was driven on a reef off Hunter's Island in a heavy snowstorm. For five hours the craft was buffeted by high waves. Three of the soldiers put off in a small rowboat, reached mainland and notified police. A police launch put out and rescued the remaining twelve men.

ALCOHOL KILLS 19 IN ONE MICHIGAN COUNTY

Detroit, Mich., March 2.—Acute alcoholism killed nineteen persons in Wayne County in February, Dr. J. W. Rohnchor, county coroner, reports. He expects such deaths to decrease from now on because of his frequent warnings against the use of liquor. He declares only poisonous liquor is obtainable in Detroit now.

3 DEAD, 24 HURT IN EGYPTIAN RIOTING

Outbreak Is in Wake of First Move Toward Acceptance of Home Rule

London, March 2 (by International News Service).—Fatal disorders were reported from Cairo today in the wake of optimistic news that an Egyptian Cabinet had been formed as the first phase of the movement to make Egypt an independent State.

According to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch three persons were killed and twenty-four wounded including four policemen, in rioting at Tantah, British troops restored order.

Cairo, March 2.—The new Egyptian Cabinet headed by Sawat Pasha, is expected to create a Constituent Assembly at the earliest possible moment to pass the act of indemnity and thus take advantage of British proposals for abolition of the British protectorate. It is declared in official circles that the political crisis virtually has passed, although long-drawn-out negotiations with the British government will be necessary before Egypt is set up as an independent state.

Wealthy Women Keep Bootleggers Busy, Says Dry Chief

Washington, March 2.—(By International News Service.)—If wealthy women would quit drinking liquor the bootleggers would soon go out of business, Robert Elliott, prohibition director for Delaware, told Prohibition Commissioner Haynes today in reporting upon enforcement conditions in that State.

"Women of means are as bad as men with lots of money," Elliott said. "Lots of them have developed the liquor habit since the Volstead act went on the books."

PRESIDENT HARDING IS SUED BY KING GEORGE

Fort Worth, Tex., March 2.—King George of England, through his attorneys, has filed a suit in District Court here against President Harding, asking damages of $1,079 for the alleged non-delivery by the Rock Island Railroad of sixty-four cases of corned beef, during the war. President Harding is a party to the suit because the railroad is the defendant, and the United States government had control of the railroads during the war.

To Run on Two Tickets

Edward F. Healy is running for re-election to the Canton Board of Selectmen on the Democratic ticket, while Republicans have nominated him for highway surveyor, in hopes of defeating John Buckley, Jr., Democrat, who has had the job since 1902. Election is Monday.

NATIONAL GUARD PROPERTY IS MISSING

State to Investigate Disappearance of $2,500 in Supplies at Lowell Armory

Adjutant-General Jesse Stevens today announced that the board of survey of his department will shortly begin an investigation into the reported disappearance of $2,500 worth of national guard property from the headquarters of Battery B, 102nd Field Artillery, at Lowell.

He had received reports, he said, that a large quantity of uniforms, revolvers, and other military equipment had mysteriously vanished from the store rooms in the armory there. This was discovered, he added, when Captain Winifred C. MacBrayne resigned to become acting chief of police of Lowell. His office was turned over to Captain George J. Paneuf.

Captain MacBrayne and others will be asked to appear before the board of survey, the adjutant-general said.

LEGISLATION WOULD BAR 'PUT-AND-TAKE' TOPS

Albany, N. Y., March 2.—Sale of "put-and-take" tops and other devices in use of which there is an element of chance for winning or losing money is sought to be prohibited by a bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman William Duke, Jr.

"This Bond is an epoch-making guarantee of purity" Royal S. Copeland

So says New York City's Health Commissioner

"PURE food means health. The Bond behind Bond Bread is an epoch-making guarantee of purity. It offers a plan which should be adopted by every food manufacturer."

These are the exact words of Dr. Copeland, the head of the world's greatest municipal health department.

We agree with him that food should be even purer than the law commands. Our Bond, which each loaf bears, is stricter than any governmental standard.

Purity is what this Bond guarantees. But, this purity also makes possible Bond Bread's home-baked flavor. From this flavor Bond Bread got its fame—from its "Bond" of purity Bond Bread got its name.

NICK FLATLEY TO SIZE UP NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUBS IN SOUTH

Can the Braves win the National League pennant?

Many Boston fans believe they can, or at least come mighty close to the top.

This is to be a great year for baseball in Boston, whether the Braves or the Red Sox have transferred their affiliations. There is no doubt that baseball will be the leading sport in the country and [illegible] the National League especially here in Boston, whether the Braves or the Red Sox have transferred their affiliations. There is no doubt that baseball will be the leading sport in the country and

In a few days the Braves will be [illegible] Spring Training, and Manager Mitchell will commence the real work of rounding into shape a team that has a splendid chance to bring pennant baseball back to Boston where it was in the days when Jimmy Collins was [illegible] Huggins and Frank Chance were [illegible] Tinker and Evers were [illegible] Mathewson and Brown were [illegible] Johnson and Walter Maranville were [illegible] Speaker and Hooper were [illegible] Lajoie was [illegible] Cobb and Crawford were [illegible] Wagner and Clarke were [illegible] Mathewson and Brown were [illegible] Johnson and Walter Maranville were [illegible] Speaker and Hooper were [illegible] Lajoie was [illegible] Cobb and Crawford were [illegible] Wagner and Clarke were [illegible] sport futile in the mad rush to the wire.

WILLS PICKED TO DEFEAT NORFOLK IN TITLE BATTLE TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

Harry Wills will go to the post a 10 to 8 betting favorite for his fifteen-round bout with Kid Norfolk at Madison Square Garden tonight. The affair has been advertised as for the colored heavyweight championship of the world and is expected to attract a jammed house.

[illegible] Norfolk has been rated as the best of the [illegible] division since [illegible] Jeffries. The latter is now in [illegible] Boston, but [illegible] a match [illegible] Wills [illegible] Norfolk [illegible] who will offer a [illegible] purse.

Young Gould has been matched to battle Mickey Dunlea at Woonsocket on Friday night. Gould has won four starts at Woonsocket, defeating Hammering Howie, Young Isolla, Walter Ishler and Joe Tibbs. He does not believe Dunlea will be able to upset his victory string.

Jimmy Manning of South Boston will have Harley Baxter, Providence boxer, as an opponent in the semi-final.

Young Dundee, South Boston welterweight, has been matched to [illegible] Young Jack Britton, [illegible] Dundee has won [illegible] Lowell [illegible] Lawrence [illegible] but has [illegible] opponents [illegible] to upset the applecart.

There is considerable interest being shown in the meeting between Doyle and O'Keefe. The latter recently made his Boston debut, defeating Harry Silva with ease. He has a will to win to his credit over Eddie Hammons and gave Jack Britton a hard fight for fifteen rounds, the fans should witness an abundance of action.

Tony Palazolo says Doyle will be at his best when he enters the ring. When Doyle is in shape in Boston, he was forced to [illegible] Jamison on account of [illegible] and as a result of [illegible] weeks. Doyle has his old-time pace and hard hitting so he will be able to whang his way to a victory over O'Keefe. He will then bid for a bout with Nate Lipski.

Eddie Sheylin will be obliged to lay off for a couple of months as a result of a badly sprained tendon in his left arm. He suffered the injury while preparing for his contest with Segal. The injury prevented Sheylin from blocking Segal's rights with his own left. For a time it looked as if Sheylin would be forced to forfeit the bout but Sheylin consented to go through with the match rather than disappoint his many admirers who were eager to see him in action.

Brockton fans are displaying considerable interest in the bout between Harry Cannon and Nick Di Lucia which is to be staged in the Brockton A. C. ring [illegible] Each boxer has a host of [illegible] which means a crowded house.

BENNY LEONARD'S HAND MAY PREVENT HIS BOUT

New York, March 3.—Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, announces that a physician will examine the title holder's hand, which he injured in his fight with Pal Moran in New Orleans last Saturday night, and will issue a statement after the examination as to whether [illegible] will be able to box on March 17.

If the physician's examination shows the champion's hand will mend shortly, Gibson says he will accept the challenge [illegible] Light in Madison Square Garden, March 17, or else it will have to be put back until some day in May.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE WILL NAME THEIR UMPS SOON

At a meeting of the Boston Twilight Baseball Association it was decided to vote upon the umpire question at its next meeting. This important question cannot be acted upon until all umpires desiring to be considered for positions have made application to the association.

All applications with affidavits if possible should be made to the president of the Boston Twilight Baseball Association, Quincy House as soon as possible. All those making application will be considered for appointment.

HUTCHISON ATTACKS PETTY ANNOYANCES OF THE LINKS

By JOCK HUTCHISON

Golf has been regarded for years, or in fact ever since the game became a popular pastime, as a "gentleman's game." Of all games played it is the only one where we are left to count on our own penalties or in other words to be our own judge, jury and advocate.

Do all of us play the game like gentlemen or follow the simple dictation laid down by the golden rule? It has been suggested that golf, of all games, offers us more opportunities to annoy our opponents and win through shoddy trickery than in any game we can mention.

A golfer may go out and play an honest game as far as counting each and every stroke and every penalty, yet stoop to the smallest things imaginable to win a match.

JAPONETTE By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

A Charming Romance of Society and a Woman's Way with a Man, by a Master of Fiction

THE STORY SO FAR

James Edgerton, '20, of an old and aristocratic New York family, returns to New York from abroad on hearing that the firm founded by his forbears has failed. Its pays dollar for dollar and finds himself left with an inherited apartment luxuriously furnished, which an iron-clad will has entailed. With two dollars in his pockets he refuses the offer of an old-time friend to help, goes to the apartment, and finds it occupied by two charming young women, distant cousins, who beg him to forgive them for being there. They are as poor as he is and have advertised for a position, using the apartment as their headquarters. They ask him to let them stay until they get employment. All three form a partnership to seek work together. A position is secured with the family of Mr. Rivett, rich, but ignorant of social customs. They arrive at his estate in the Berkshires.

"EXCEPT at the Maternity Hospital—" Oh, Silvia, it's ghostly. It's jarrin' horrid—it's devilishly unfair. Young girls in the springtide of youth creep in and out of that direful place like the white ghosts of murdered souls. If motherhood must play them, it killed the better part of them. Then the world engulfs them—youth, hope, freedom ended with the first thin cry of pain that dooms all women."

"I—hate children!" She stood a moment, slim hands on her hips, head lowered with the brown locks waving, tempting against her cheeks, then, looking up:

"But I mean to have one of my own some time. Life to the full, dregs and all, before I die. That is my program."

She grew hotched. "This is a new and recent development and it's—"

"I'm developing fast, too."

"Lightning develops quickly, but it doesn't last, dear."

Smiled Vaguely

Diana, lost in retrospection again, smiled vaguely. Then, lifting her pretty eyes:

"Did you ever see starlings feeding their young? A pair hovered opposite the studio. I found that evolutions rather interesting.

"No doubt," said her sister, "in that what has aroused the maternal instinct." Come, who is to bathe first. Sit down and unlace that one on the floor by. At long for the maid, dear. She ought to cut out our gowns at once."

Diana did as she was bidden then, on impulse, sat down at the little five-way desk and scribbled a note.

"Take it to Mr. Edgerton," she said to the maid.

Edgerton, dressing, heard a card in the maid's hand in front of his electric cluster.

"Dear Jim: Too rain, the wood and things upstairs are damp and sometimes [illegible] a cold. Picture ahead of me. FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

What is your opinion?

I have just come from a mid-day luncheon attended by two or three hundred business men, mostly members of the Kiwanis Club. The food served was plain, inexpensive, economical. Snatches of popular songs were sung while the eating was going on, everyone joining in. A dozen or more guests, men more or less well known, were briefly introduced and then a prominent Canadian made a short address.

* * *

Cordiality, informality, neighborliness, good cheer characterized the whole affair. It didn't last more than an hour and a half.

I am wondering whether the social note is struck often enough in busy business men, particularly in our cities.

After all, what is the be-all and end-all of business?

When Christ was criticised for doing a good turn on the Sabbath day, He replied that man was not made for the Sabbath but Sabbath for man.

Is not this the right conception to have of business—that man does not exist for business but that business exists for the service of man?

Frankly, I have seen so much of men who allowed themselves to become completely obsessed by business, and who have crushed out of themselves the finer amenities of life that I am inclined to think it would be a good thing if Kiwanis, Rotary, Lion and similar club luncheons were attended once or twice a month by responsible men in all large towns and cities.

* * *

Take Wall Street, for example. There is no spot on earth where more so-called "luncheon engagements" are made and kept, but these Wall Street luncheons invariably are nothing but business conferences. Two or more members of the financial community get together and talk nothing but business all through the meal. The real social note is not sounded. These men's minds are concentrated on the business matter under discussion just as keenly as if they were in their offices. There is no sing-song, there is no badinage, there is rarely any sitting back, relaxing to listen to a short talk on some subject of human interest.

In other cities and in industrial centres it is now very common for executives of an organization to have luncheon together, but here, also, the conversation usually has to do with the business. Sociability, genuine sociability, is lacking.

Do you not think it would be a good thing all round if, once in a while, there were held functions such as are held by the clubs already mentioned and by similar organizations?

I believe bankers would be better men and, therefore, better bankers, if they went in for a good deal more amount of this kind of fraternizing.

I believe industrial executives would be better men and better executives if they did the same thing.

I believe, in short, that business would begin to wear a more human aspect, that more harmony would enter into the daily grind, if these little mid-day gatherings became more universal and attended particularly by the very men who would scorn the idea that they could find the time to take an hour and a quarter or an hour and a half once or twice a month for such a purpose.

Of course, the thing can be overdone. Some men would rather spend the best part of every day in socializing. That would be foolish. But my observation is that the great majority of men who have risen to responsible positions are those who go in too little rather than too much for humanizing experiences such as these Kiwanis and Rotary Club luncheons afford.

There is too much harshness, too much selfishness, too much savagery in the conduct of business. There is, in the final analysis, no reason why business activities should not be conducted in an agreeable a spirit as social activities. Many men attain "success" in business by methods and actions which render their "success" sour at the end, rather than sweet.

Is not, therefore, anything calculated to cause the milk of human kindness to flow through the veins of business men worthy of adoption, provided always, of course, it is not overdone and adds to a man's real worth and does not reduce his capacity for useful service?

Cotton Market Opening

New York, March 2—Liverpool and Wall Street were sellers of cotton at the opening of the cotton exchange here today and the first prices were 10 to 15 points lower. Subsequent offerings were not numerous and caused the prices early to show a slight advance. After the call market was steady about five points above initial levels. Opening prices were: May, 19.77; July, 17.12; October, 16.45; December, 16.53; January, 16.20.

Bank of England Statement

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows an increase in bullion of £406,-000 pounds. The reserve percentage declined from 18.63 to 17.20. The public deposits of the week were £275,570,000 and security holders them being £28,022,000. The rate of discount rate remained unchanged at 4½ per cent.

More New Haven Road Bonds

Washington, March 2.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today received from the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to issue first and refunding mortgage bonds to the amount necessary to equal the amount that may be certified by the commission for the extension of the road's Providence branch.

Standard Oil Earnings

New York, March 2—Standard oil of Indiana reports for 1921 net profits of $25,000,000, after $2,000,000 deductions, which is equal to $4.95 a share on 5,294,418 shares. For 1920 net profits outstanding against $40,000,000 and $13.63 a share on 2,931,382 shares outstanding in 1920.

Stocks Close Strong in New York; Money 4%; Sterling and Marks Down

HIGHEST PRICES RECORDED IN LAST HOUR

Steels Took the Lead Late in the Session; Sugars, Rails, Motors and Oils Up

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Highest prices for the day on the New York exchange were recorded in the last hour, when steels assumed leadership. Sugars, rails, oils, and motors were up at the end. Short covering contributed to the strength against a lower call rate induced buying for the long account. Gains ranged from fractions to around four points. Among strongest issues were Union Pacific, Cast Iron Pipe, Chandler U. S. Steel, Gulf States Steel, Mexican Petroleum and Bethlehem B. Trading was more active in the afternoon, transactions approximating 750,000 shares.

Call money fell to 4 per cent. It opened at 4½ and later was offered at 4¼. Reports as to the British political situation depressed sterling and before noon demand was down to $4.41 and $4.0943 German marks were at their lowest since November 15.

Cotton and wheat receded a little at today's openings.

RAILS AND SUGARS RISE.

The trend was upward in the second hour and the market was strong at noon and over midday. Some oil equipments taking the lead for a while. This movement continued in the afternoon. Motors and rails were next among the leaders. New York Central and Hartman sold at highest prices since 1920. The last named being up almost five points in the last hour.

Highs for 1922 were attained by Cuban American, Cuba Cane preferred, American Sugar, Chandler and Mexican Petroleum. Strength of sugars accompanied an advance in the price of the refined commodity. Lows for the day were established by Transcontinental Oil and Manhattan Elevated. Trading broadened late in the session. Doheny oils improved after declination today of regulation dividends.

SOON EASED OFF.

While prices ruled higher at the opening, the market soon eased off and became irregular. The upward movement was most pronounced in the case of the issues including several that have been fostered by bull pools. Selling pressure was due in part to dissatisfaction with the congressional attitude on a number of questions affecting business. Oils, steels and rails advanced briskly at the start, but weakened quickly. Motors were also heavy. By mid-morning the market had rallied a little, but was still quiet. Issues in the shape of two points or more were Atlantic Gulf, Burns Bros. B and United Fruit. Largest individual gains were made by Lima Locomotive and Kelsey Wheel, they advancing two points or more. Chandler Motors and Hupp Trading had no distinctive feature during the forenoon.

MARKET A SURPRISE.

The recent activity of the market has caused surprise, million-share days being unlooked for when the public is not speculating. The short interest is still large and sentiment on the part of the professional element is more bearish than bullish. But while reports of industrial surplus items being published day by day are calculated to dampen enthusiasm they tell of the past rather than of the present and are certainly no index of the future. The Pierce-Arrow statement for 1921 was awaited in trepidation, but although it proved disappointing in that company's history its shares declined a fraction only. After preferred dividends the deficit was $1,702,712 against $949,814 reported for 1920. Such reports are ignored because business is on a better basis. The improvement is slow some is discernible. One of the best signs of the hour is the growth of the steel industry, which is a barometer for trade as a whole. The money market is easier. Even the bond slump did not cause a ripple on the smooth surface.

New York Bond Market

New York, March 2.—There was branch in the bond market today, the demand for issues almost equally distributed. Prices were generally steady, with a further strength of City of Memphis 4s, but the more popular British and French issues were off. Kansas City Southern, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Denver & Rio Grande, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Missouri Pacific, Southern, Detroit United Railway, Brooklyn Rapid Transit To and Third issues were also strong, but Tire Average Adjustments declined. Liberty issues were unchanged. Total sales, again changing hands in fairly large volume.

Railroad Items

The Narragansett Pier Railroad has applied for a permanent issue of $50,000 for fifteen years.

The Illinois Central Railroad has placed an order for 12,000 tons of standard steel rails with the Illinois Steel Co.

Metal Market

New York, March 2.—Metal prices were: Copper, easy, electrolytic spot and future, sent to April, offered 14½. Spelter, dull and March, 5.10 to 4%. April, 5.15 to 4%.

New Swiss Bank Rate

Zurich, March 2.—The discount rate of the Swiss National Bank will be reduced from 6 per cent to 5½ per cent, and the lombard rate from 7 per cent to 6½ per cent, effective from March 5.

LOTS OF SIGNS OF BETTER BUSINESS

Evans Says Small Enthusiasm Over Prospects Is Due to Caution of Public

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, March 2.— The markets are really wooing a bull. The false glee over "improvement" in 1921, following the flare of 1919, is now replaced by something resembling real thought, flavored with a sprinkling from the hope of 1922, but the doors and the would-be doors refuse to indulge in anything like enthusiasm, and rightly so. Enthusiasm at present will be like the gayety of a New Englander who, twenty years ago with the jacket of orthodoxy fitted to him.

Whereas in ordinary good or improving times the average man will snap at any vamping bait held out before him, he now retains his efficatory sense and also puts on glasses to peer at the thing presented.

This is seen in Chicago in the small amount of buying of stocks, and in the small bull following since it rushed in large numbers into the grain market during the war. The people really made this stock market, that is the small folks who have been buying in small lots, are going with the force still, but they refuse to get excited.

A GOOD CONDITION.

This is the best possible condition, on the one hand because it signifies the elimination to a large extent of the depression which has heretofore existed, and on the other hand because the gain in our trade which is coming will walk slowly at times.

Anyhow we have new goods on hand and enough buyers to make a certain pretty definite quantity of them, is a strong situation for the merchant, or even for the vender of securities.

The facts are perfectly clear to anybody who will observe, but those harsh because the gain in our trade which is coming will walk slowly at times.

The rise in grain has told its story and it is a big one. Then we have reports from all classes of business showing actual, though small, change. One may take the report of Sears, Roebuck & Company as covering a wide scope of merchandising and find that the sales for the first month in 1922 compared with those of February, 1921, was only 11.5 per cent, and for the two months of 1922, 10.36 per cent. These figures compare with a large decrease for the corresponding year 1921. Montgomery Ward & Company shows an actual increase.

RAILROADS CREEPING AHEAD.

Also the railroads are creeping into a better position, too, little appreciated by the casual observer who had made up his mind that gross earnings would not increase unless there was the net gains were due to economies positively injurious to the properties. Larger gross earnings together with the net gains are due to economies positively injurious to the properties. Larger gross earnings together with the net gains are due to economies positively injurious to the properties.

But in a way the quotations of foreign exchange is still stronger evidence. Sterling has advanced 200 points, francs approximating half of their par value, while the conviction that sinking fund gold debentures, due January 1, 1946, at 67.20 and a share in 1922 compared with those of February, 1921, was only 11.5 per cent, and for the two months of 1922, 10.36 per cent. TRADING DULL AND NARROW IN BOSTON

Coppers Dull, but Have a Firm Tone; Curb Weakens After a Mixed Start

Irregularity marked the price movement on the Boston Exchange at the opening and throughout the morning. International Cement was the most active issue and advanced 1¾ to a new record high price. Coppers were firm but quiet. Packing issues were dull in a small way. Rails were dull, but rather heavy. The market was narrow in every sense. Maine Central, Fitchburg and Nashua advanced two points, and Isle Royale, Mohawk and Massachusetts Gas one. Eastern Steamship declined 1¼ and Boston & Maine A one point.

The tone was firmer in the afternoon. American Woolen preferred sold at its highest since 1920, and that was true also of American Sugar common and preferred. Point or more gains were shown by Amoskeag, Punta Alegre, United Fruit and American Sugar. Massachusetts Gas increased 1¼ and United Shoe more than a point. Mohawk lost its early advance.

CURB WEAKENED.

After a mixed start the Curb market weakened. It was very quiet. Leaders were Bagdad, Boston and Montana, and Eureka. Gains at close included Three Metals 1 cent at 66 cents, Imperial 1 cent at 8 cents and Crystal 1 cent at 55 cents. Among losses were Bagdad, 2 cents at 78 cents, Boston & Montana, 2 cents at 35 cents, Boston Ely 1 cent at 54 cents, Gray Top 1 cent at 22 cents, Verde Mines 1 cent at 22 cents and United Verde Extension ⅜ at 27¾. Eureka and Mutual had lost early gains.

Corporation Reports

The American Wholesale Corporation reports sales for January of $5,132,501, a decrease of $1,077,775 from January, 1921, total.

The Phillips-Jones Corporation reports for the fiscal half of last year net profits of $1,186,624, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.13 a share on common stock.

The Lima Locomotive Works reports for 1921 net income after depreciation, interest and taxes of $1,644,000, compared with $978,780 for 1920.

The Pierce-Arrow Bank Note Company for 1921 shows net after charges and Federal taxes of $1,702,712, equivalent after preferred dividends to $18.51 a share on common, against $949,814, or $21.26 a share in 1920.

The St. Joseph Lead Company for 1921 shows net of $2,000,000, equivalent to $3.77 a share on 530,000 shares of common stock, against $4,200,000, equivalent to $11.94 a share for 1920.

The Texas Gulf Sulphur Company for 1921 reports net profits of $1,944,000, after charges and Federal taxes, equivalent to $4.54 a share on 428,000 shares of stock.

Sears Roebuck sales decreased 11.32 per cent, in February and for the two months decreased 10.36 per cent.

For 1921 the Union Natural Gas Corporation and its subsidiary companies report net profits of $1,060,000.

The Phillips Petroleum Company reports for 1921 net profits of $5,947,932 and surplus of $3,618,000.

PRINCESS SAYS INDIAN MAIDS SET STYLES

Tsianina Declares Modern Fashions Are Reversion to Those in Days of Pocahontas

Present-day women's styles aren't modern at all—they're simply a reversion to the styles affected by Indian maidens about the time that Pocahontas beguiled the noble redmen into sparing the life of Captain John Smith.

This statement comes on the authority of no less a person than Princess Tsianina, who is herself a full-blooded Indian, and who is, incidentally, a prima donna of considerable note.

The Princess is in Boston today to sing at tonight's concert in Jordan Hall for the Goucher College fund. She received a reporter for the Boston American in her suite at the Parker House.

NOT IN SCANTINESS.

The Princess made it clear that she does not mean modern styles are like the old Indian dress in that they have a tanning toward a scant of attire. Not at all. She describes the resemblance this way:

"You will notice that dresses today are featuring fringes, beads, and so on," she said. "Now, that is putting in the world but a copying of Indian modes. Look at my dress—notice the fringes, the beads, the general cut of it. Then look at the dresses that are being put out for Spring wear. They really isn't a great deal of difference."

The Princess looked, as instructed, and concluded that the advantage is really with the Indian dress worn by the Princess.

Despite the ever-present, all pervading talk of hats in modern times, Tsianina believes that the American public is making great strides in its ability to appreciate good music. In support of her belief she cites the great popularity of the "Pop concerts," which symphony orchestras are giving in cities throughout the country. Jazz, she says, is on the wane and leave it to race.

SHOULD SMOKE IN PRIVATE.

Princess Tsianina spent more than eight months overseas during the war, singing, without compensation, to the American soldiers there. In every city she visits, she says, men who served overseas and before whom she appeared in France call on her to voice their appreciation of her work for them.

The Princess has pronounced views on the subject of smoking for women. Her chief objection to it, she says, is that it reduces the woman to the level of the man.

"If a woman wants to smoke, of course it's her own business," she said. "But she ought to be able to confine it to her own apartments. She hates herself when she smokes in public."

Born in an Oklahoma mission school of Creek and Cherokee parentage, Tsianina has become one of the foremost sopranos of her race. She has appeared in various parts of the country in compositions by Charles Wakefield Cadman, the American composer who has popularized the music of the Redmen.

DARTMOUTH 1922 CLASS HEADED BY SHARON MAN

Hanover, N. H., March 2.—In the elections held by the class of 1922 of Dartmouth College, Richard P. Bigelow, of Sharon, Mass., was chosen permanent president. Stetson is manager of the varsity track team, president of the Dartmouth Christian Association and a member of the student government organization of the college. John P. Carleton, of Hanover, also prominent in undergraduate life, was elected marshal.

TEACHERS' EQUAL PAY BILL WITHDRAWN

The petition for equal pay for Boston school teachers, irrespective of sex, received a report, "leave to withdraw," by the education committee in the House. Leave to withdraw was reported by the committee on municipal finance on the petition for a municipal building at Field's Corner, Dorchester. The same report was made by the same committee on the petition for improvement of the Strandway along Dorchester Bay.

"We first became acquainted with Formamint when our doctor, several years ago, prescribed it for an epidemic of sore throat. You know how it runs through a family.

"We like Formamint because it relieves so quickly and is so much more convenient than gargles and sprays, especially for the children who hate such remedies.

"Then you remember the 'flu' epidemic. How fearful we all were of crowded, stuffy places; theatres and shops; crowded cars and fly ventilated school rooms. Again the whole family 'Formaminted' their throats and mouths, by using the pleasant tasting tablets freely, whenever there was danger of contagion.

"Formamint must be really antiseptic, because none of us had the 'flu,' and few had sore throats, that whole winter. You can put our family down as Formamint enthusiasts."

To Help Put on Good Firm Flesh and Round Out Your Face and Figure

Stanolax Yeast Vitamines Tablets Often Produce Most Surprising Results. Get a FREE $1.00 Package Today as Explained Below—Try Them for Ten Days and Watch the Results.

Science has at last shown how we sometimes grow weak, thin, and emaciated on an abundance of food (lacking in vitamines) while with a much smaller amount of food, rich in vitamines, we may quickly take on good firm flesh, increase in weight, and make a remarkable gain in strength, energy and vitality. Just one yeast tablet contains sufficient quantity of oxygenated organic iron to enable your body to assimilate your food properly.

Without organic iron both food and vitamines are absolutely useless as your body can not change lifeless inert food matter into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood.

For centuries scientists tried in vain to make organic iron. At last the problem was solved so that you may now obtain pure organic iron like the iron in your blood from any druggist under the name of "Nunated Iron."

It has been arranged to give every purchaser of Nunated Iron, who wishes something to help put on flesh or increase weight, a large regular $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free. Be sure to take only Nunated Brand Yeast Vitamine Tablets with Nunated Iron. Do not be misled by imitations which others may offer.

Indian Prima Donna Who Says Styles Revert to Pilgrim Times

B. U. STUDENTS WARNED ON DIET

Dr. Edwards Tells Theologians Leaving Table Hungry Is an Excellent Habit

"Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow ye die," says the old Bible phrase. "Eat, drink and be merry" in many cases is brought very much nearer by what we eat," declared Dr. Martin Edwards, speaking before the students of the Boston University School of Theology in Robinson Memorial Chapel on "Diet."

"A very large proportion of the indigestion and acute gas attacks would be ruled out if we did not eat so much. For these frequent complaints, getting up from a table a little hungry is an excellent habit," advised Dr. Edwards. "Tell me how you eat and I will tell you what you think.' Diet indeed has a tremendous influence on our status of mind and thoughts themselves.

DANGER IS OVERWEIGHT.

"Overweight comes in at this point. Few of us realize how great the importance of maintaining our body at a proper weight. The fact that nine pounds or more overweight lives a definitely shorter life, on the average, than a person who is five pounds underweight."

DANGER IS OVERWEIGHT.

"We often hear of the necessity of the 'reduction of waste' in our economic life; I should like to emphasize the necessity of reduction of waste' as almost equally important. Overweight is like excess baggage, only you can't check it. Most excess weight comes from eating more than you need.

"ENOUGH IS TOO MUCH.

"It is a very good rule to remember that 'Enough is too much.' This simple rule applies all through life, whether it has to do with food or drink, pleasure or work, play or study. If you have had enough you have really had too much.

"Spring fever is not a fever at all. It is caused entirely by the fact that you have been living all winter on a diet lacking in vitamines and mineral salts. So we are given some dandelions and we go out and eat grass and lassoo. Sure enough soon we are feeling splendidly again.

"This is not because the dandelions, the sulphur and molasses are medicines, but, because, on the other hand, dandelions and molasses contain a large amount of both vitamines and mineral salts. We should have been having these elements all Winter long in our diets, for they are absolutely essential to a healthy body."

PRUNES DEVELOP MUSCULAR ENERGY

California prunes are one of the most healthful and nutritious fruits grown, according to a report which has just been issued by Professor M. E. Jaffa, professor of nutrition of the University of California, and one of the best known food experts of the United States.

National Prune Week, which is being held this week throughout the United States and Canada, under the auspices of 11,000 California prune growers, who co-operatively sell their crops through their own co-operative marketing association, California Prune & Apricot Growers, Inc., is being used by these growers to emphasize the healthful and body building elements contained in the California prunes.

CARE IN DRYING.

One of the principal reasons for the high food value of California prunes, according to food experts, is the unusual manner in which these prunes are grown and dried.

California prunes are never picked from the trees, as are other fruits. They ripen to full maturity and drop to the ground, where they are gathered by pickers. It is the last few days on the trees which give them their high sugar content and food value is the opinion of food experts.

DEVELOP ENERGY.

Professor Jaffa, in his report, draws attention to the commonly known value of prunes as a healthful fruit, but also explains that prunes play a very important part in developing the muscular energy necessary to keep the human body going.

California prunes, averaging 65 per cent. pure fruit sugar, contain 1,325 calories per pound, according to Professor Jaffa's analysis.

SCORES CHURCHES FOR LEAVING POOR DISTRICTS

The Rev. Johnathan C. Day, speaking before a meeting of the Old South Meeting House, scored the action of many Protestant churches in New York in leaving the congested district of the lower East Side for more pleasant locations. Further, he said, he declared that "there is no need to go to China and Japan to find a field for Christian endeavor." The Rev. Mr. Day said that the Catholic church and the Episcopal church alone kept up their activities in the East Side district, but that other denominations have moved out. "There still remain to be combatted in that section of the city, he insisted, and the churches should not close their eyes to their opportunities there.

COURSE IN FOREIGN TRADE TO BE OPENED

Boston merchants, manufacturers and their employes can now study foreign trade.

Such course will be opened on Wednesday evening next by the State division of the university extension at the Boston Public Library. It will be offered in co-operation with the foreign trade committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce under Charles R. Nutter and the Federal Bureau of Foreign Commerce, and A. D. Fuller, Jr., will act as instructor.

ALLEN FAVORS SALE OF ICE BY TICKET

Attorney General J. Weston Allen, in answer to the Senate for an opinion as to whether or not the bill providing for the sale of ice from wagons by tickets is constitutional, reported that with certain changes suggested by him the bill would be constitutional. He recommended that changes be made so that ice may be sold either on payment of tickets or money, so that the public will not be required to purchase tickets, but may secure ice on the payment of money as well as tickets.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

ONE of the chief items of interest in the theatrical world of New York has been the installation of wireless apparatus in a number of stages along Broadway. In this way the "Back to Methuselah" company could put in its spare moments listening to excerpts of the "Good Morning, Dearie" score or any other production in which they are interested. In the same way out of town enthusiasts are able to "take in" a show without commuting.

The Mattapan Theatre has been the first to experiment with the idea in Massachusetts. Mr. Anderson, the owner, and the manager, Mr. Eldridge, have had a receiving station installed at their theatre and their operator, Mr. Young, picks up radio messages in the air. A speech being made in Pittsburgh, Penn., is as clearly heard in Mattapan that the sound must be toned down in order to make it pleasant. Operas are listened to and bits of them—from New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Newark within singing distance, and radio dispatches from Washington are given. This all takes place in a thirty-minute feature between pictures.

"CHICK" TRICKER SHOWS THEM HOW.

THE latest addition to a screen player is Charles Tricker, known among those interested in fighting as the referee at the best "scrap" in the bowery of New York. Tricker, who during his twenty years of experience has been owner of Bowery saloons has drawn some of the worst men in the worst part of town, will teach the aspiring young crooks of the movies, how to "put over" gray cast dispositions with the superb finish exterior of refinement.

Tricker has been entertaining offers from movie magnates for some time, and finally got the definite contract within a few days. He tells of one occasion when he cleaned out ten bad ones, one after the other, with his fists, in a restaurant in Chinatown, and points with pride to ten souvenirs of famous gun fights in which he starred.

ANOTHER FILM ROMANCE.

THE newest romance of the movie world is that of Estelle Taylor, Fox star, and George Walsh, who has appeared with her in a new production for that company. It is said that they will be married as soon as Walsh gets his decree of divorce from Seena Owen, now playing leads with Thomas Meighan.

Miss Taylor has been in the limelight since her success in "While New York Sleeps" and Walsh since his appearance with her in a new production for that company. It is said that they will be married as soon as Walsh gets his decree of divorce from Seena Owen, now playing leads with Thomas Meighan.

FROM A 13-YEAR-OLD READER.

MORE than a few readers have taken their pens in hand after reading the letters of E. J. K. of Brookline and H. J. of Boston. That, as they have published, the audiences are surfeited with social pictures and want the good old melodrama when the villain is bad and the hero hold a dozen men at bay with the fastest effort in the world, apparently is not the general idea. One of the best letters on the subject came from one who signs herself, "a thirteen-year-old reader."

"Dear Miss Davis," she writes. "I read your columns very often and enjoy them very much. I have seen several letters against society pictures, crime films, etc., but asking for simple western pictures or simple home pictures.

"I disagree. I know many people who, if there is to be a western picture in the theatre will not go. After a day's work or in an afternoon, don't you think people like gorgeous settings better than a shooting, rough-riding picture?

"This afternoon I saw 'The Great Impersonation' and the house was full; also Mary Miles Minter in 'Pidgin Island.' 'Impersonation' was a fine picture, and I wish we could find more like it. It was a beautiful picture as to the home and the people and had a happy ending.

"'Tillie' I did not care for. I wish Miss Minter would not play the meek and evil sisters any more. I am going to see Douglas Fairbanks in 'The Three Musketeers.'

"Most people like a happy ending, and many would not go to see 'The Storm' because it ended in a shooting, rough-riding picture.

"This is my opinion of the pictures, so my mind, while I was very little impressed with 'Tillie.' It seems to me, moreover, that the majority of movie fans like society dramas. Please let the Westerns, although a ripping cowboy picture is a good tonic occasionally, and also the historical films. There is one point in favor of the social pictures, and it is that the story gives one food for thought, while the rough-riding films are all action."

BROOKLYN RECTOR TO SPEAK AT ST. PAUL'S

Rev. J. Howard Melish, prominent Episcopal clergyman, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, will be speaker at the 12:10 services at St. Paul's Cathedral today and tomorrow. The Rev. Mr. Melish is well known as a speaker on industrial matters as they relate to the church and has addressed many large audiences in Boston. This is the first time he has visited Boston.

Litvinoff, of the Russian Government, a man who thinks along Western European lines, says of the Washington "peace conference":

The first consequence of the conference was the invasion of Russian territory by a Japanese army. It looks to us as if any "settlement" accomplished in Washington would consist of carte blanche to Japan to start land grabbing at our expense.

Those quiet, deep little diplomats from Japan have certainly shown themselves TOO DEEP for the ingenuous American corporation lawyers chosen to match wits with them.

"You can drive a horse to water, but you can't make him drink." You may add: "You can drive a man to water, but you can't make him drink—WATER."

In Norway they decided to have prohibition. And in the prohibition year of 1921 they arrested 10,000 men and 634 women for drunkenness in Christiania—many more than before prohibition. It doesn't seem to work. Whiskey is so easy to make and hide, men are so determined to have the poison that prohibition means whiskey as the national beverage.

A student of Columbia College in New York has been there studying for forty-one years. His uncle left him an annuity, to be paid as long as he stayed in school, so he stays on. How much the ancient Columbia student is learning he alone knows, but THIS is sure:

The man that ceases going to school, the REAL school of experience, might as well be out of the world. The day you stop LEARNING is the day you might as well stop LIVING.

Nature probably invented death because she knew that after a certain age we would necessarily cease to learn, and it wasn't worth while keeping us on any longer.

Europe believes that militaristic power is represented in the new French Cabinet. If it is, the new government will not last long. The French people, above all, next to national honor, want peace. To keep what they have and get all that can possibly be got from Germany will satisfy them. If the new Cabinet begins waving the big sabre, it will soon go.

The French are LOGICAL. And just now logic says, "Lie peacefully and digest what you have just swallowed."

Roy D. Brown, a policeman in Marion, Ohio, President Harding's home town, gave up his badge. He went to a revival, became converted, and says a policeman can't be a Christian, therefore he leaves the force. Until recently, at least, he had no job.

"It isn't exactly," says Mr. Brown, "that a policeman is necessarily dishonest. But he has to arrest people without being sure that they are guilty." He says, "If Jesus Christ came back and said He was the Saviour, He would be arrested and thrown into prison. No more policing for me."

Mr. Brown might get a job as a sort of evangelistic policeman at Mr. Bryan's religious meetings. There must be a virtuous police job somewhere. Anyhow, if Mr. Brown reads the Bible carefully he will find that obedience to the laws, and respect for the rights even of Caesar himself, were commanded. Deep religious feeling compels Mr. Brown to say, "I won't be a policeman"; yet, if every policeman suddenly became converted in the same way, what a magnificent thing it would be for the burglars and highwaymen, and what a sad thing for the human race!

A danger that might be worse than Japanese fighting men threatens the country. It is the corn borer.

Note what a vicious enemy the borer is. That parasite destroying American cornfields that produce several billions a year would make the cotton boll weevil seem trifling.

Suggestion to the able Secretary of Agriculture—why not quarantine all seed from foreign countries, planting a sample and trying it first on some island soil, far enough off to make it safe? The English quarantine all dogs for rabies. Quarantining seeds might be a good idea—it is feasible.

President Harding set a good example when he allowed the chiefs of the International Identification Association to make records of his fingerprints and to photograph him in the professional way. If the entire population were fingerprinted and photographed it would be no insult to anybody and a great help to justice. The amazing thing is that the delicate arrangement of lines on the ends of your thumbs and fingers is different from that of every other human being and remains all during life—no changing it, except with the knife.

Mr. Carson sees in the freedom of Ireland "abject humiliation for Great Britain," but his seeing is crooked. There is no humiliation in doing justice. And of all great work done by Lloyd George, ablest statesman that Europe has produced in a hundred years, nothing will stand out in history as brilliantly as the Irish settlement.

The total financing done by the United States Government alone since the war began amounts to TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MILLION dollars.

It takes a rich country and a good-natured, willing, generous country to do financing to the tune of two hundred billions. Such a country ought to be worth protecting in every possible way, even though it be necessary to disoblige England or hurt the feelings of our little Japanese brothers who may want to cross the Pacific in our direction some day and do not like the idea of strong fortifications to prevent.

Uncle Sam Is Safe "Now"

But He Had a Narrow Squeak

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

The editor of the London Nation says we are all right NOW, and may consider ourselves safe. There will be no war with England. But, says he, if we had NOT agreed to junk our battleships and give up any idea of naval supremacy at the Washington conference, war between England and the United States would have been INEVITABLE.

This means evidently, that to be friendly with England, we must do as England says, and especially not presume to build up naval power, when our turn comes.

England ruled the seas for years, her navy surpassed all, including ours, and it never occurred to us to make war on England for that reason. If she could afford the ships and wanted them, we did not presume to tell her what to do.

Unless the Senate interferes, or the world suddenly changes its character, this nation will live to regret bitterly the brand of imitation statesmanship now in control.

15,000 Mexicans to Be Sent Home

DENVER, March 2.—Despite assurance from Governor O. H. Shoup that "everything possible would be done to alleviate their condition," early withdrawal of the 15,000 old Mexican laborers now in Colorado and their return to the motherland below the Rio Grande is predicted by Vincente Rendon Quijano, Mexican Consul in Denver, following his investigation of the impoverished condition of thousands of his fellow countrymen as a result of economic depression.

Senor Quijano recently appealed to the Mexico City government for financial aid in transporting Mexican laborers in Colorado to their native land, to be repatriated and allowed acreage of their own for cultivation.

Consul Quijano declared that his investigation, especially in the best centres of the southern and eastern sections of the State, convinced him of the advisability of the Mexican laborers returning to their homeland, and he declared that they will be welcomed back.

"The condition of Mexicans in Colorado is critical," Consul Quijano declared. "In many cases they have not been fully paid for their work, owing to lack of funds of the farmers. This is one of the chief reasons why Mexicans are destitute this Winter.

"The best field workers are the greatest sufferers, and it is probable that they will be taken back to Mexico soon."

Consul Quijano intimated that the Mexican government will endeavor to secure permission from the United States government to run as many trains into this country as will be necessary to accommodate the returning Mexicans.

He also said that Mexico is planning new legislation to prevent the emigration of Mexican laborers.

Pupil—"Luna, the moon, and ——er—er—attic, the upper story."

Cemeteries Crowding Out Farms in China

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 2.—China's vast cemeteries, covering hundreds of acres in the immediate vicinity of its cities, are responsible in part for famine conditions in the Far Eastern republic.

This is the opinion expressed by Clarence Chubbuck, who is just back from the Far East and is visiting relatives here.

"Land badly needed for agricultural purposes today is used for cemeteries," declared Chubbuck. "In certain parts of China, the land is dotted with conical-shaped graves. Going into Peking, one looks out over miles of what seems like land afflicted with smallpox.

"The areas are Chinese burying grounds. The bodies are placed on top of the ground, and the graves are constructed around them. It was an old custom for the emperor, at the beginning of a new dynasty, to order the graves all levelled. Only the emperor was accorded that power.

"When the Manchu dynasty came in, for some reason or other, the order was not issued. As that dynasty lasted 300 years, in a province that is thickly populated the graves naturally cover much ground. The president of the Chinese republic has not undertaken to level the graves, and the mounds continue to increase in number.

"This is creating a serious problem, for the land is imperatively needed for grain. The Chinese families are attributive to no small degree to this land shortage.

"Chinese funeral rites are strange. In Canton and other cities there are buildings that are really hotels for the dead. They are constructed with rooms opening into a central lobby. Each of the small rooms is divided by a screen. Behind the screen the coffin containing the body of the deceased rests.

"On the other side of the screen, sitting about on chairs and divans, are members of the dead person's family. They come every day and remain for hours, carrying on conversations with the dead. Attendants place food and drink for the departed twice daily. The food disappears in the absence of the family, and it is presumed that the spirit of the departed has enjoyed nourishment.

"As a matter of fact, the attendants enjoy the sustenance. The body often remains for a week or more. It cannot be inferred until a priest, by the use of a divining rod or some other similar means, discovers a holy place to bury it.

"The priest is paid according to the length of time he is engaged on that task. Naturally, that time depends upon the financial condition of the family of the deceased."

SOMEBODY'S BIRTHDAY

By Elsa Allen

Copyright, 1922, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

IF today is your birthday, you will find yourself a person who is resourceful in the direst moments of adversity and you will probably be able to pull yourself out of the worst hole you could possibly fall into.

This is due neither to optimism nor to will power, but rather to a shrewd sense of using all things and all people to your advantage.

You are a born diplomat and so fond of intrigue that you are apt to enlroll your friends and men chance acquaintances in each other's affairs to make life more interesting and dramatic.

At the same time you have just enough cruelty in you not to intervene when you have started something which goes from the merely dramatic to the tragic. You will tell yourself that the victims are the victims of their own character and not yours.

You are capable of intense friendships and bitter enmity, but even in your hatreds you are not necessarily combative. You will use diplomacy and if that fails you will wait for your revenge and probably achieve it through the agency of another personality.

Today is one of good outlook for travel and new ventures.

The coming year for you will cause you anxiety in business speculations. Avoid any new partnerships made in haste.

A child born today will be generous and ambitious and have fine energy.

Famous persons born today:

Pope Leo XIII.
John McCall—Insurance expert.
Carl Schurz—Statesman.
De Witt Clinton—Builder of Erie Canal.
Sam Houston—President of Texas.

Letters to the Editor

A United Europe

Editor Boston American:

There is nothing in history to warrant belief in Mrs. Fredrick's federated Europe, pleasing as the fancy may be. All the pages of the past bear witness to the futility of attempting to make a congeries of nations cohere for any length of time.

The national growth, like that of all organic bodies, is from the inside. Also the creation of new ones is by transplanting, not grafting. Even then the ethnic varieties from a common stem do not always hold together.

But if it were possible to make a peaceful amalgam of discordant elements, as Mrs. Fredrick imagines, her program for working it out seems rather defective. The election of a leading official by casting lots, would give you, by this rule of blind chance, the right man in three throws of the dice.

Public documents to satisfy all round would have to be printed in more than fifty languages. The scheme does not hint at the location of the capital, neither does it provide for raising the revenue, without which even a municipal government could not exist.

M. H. NICKERSON.

Education for the Bar

Editor Boston American:

I have been reading of the question relative to applicants for admission to the legal profession.

It seems that the men of wealth and blue bloods would restrict such profession to the wealthy class and shut the doors to ambitious young men who strive to be members of the bar. I have long had such an ambition, but my early years required my giving up school to help support my mother and family. I have sacrificed the pleasures of a young man to acquire a legal training and now at the end of four years of hard struggle and about to take the bar examination I find that a certain class of men would shut me out with many more young men, because of having no college education.

I appeal to the good judgment of the public if it is right to shut the doors of the law to young men like me.

RADIATING JOY ABOUT HER PATH IN LIFE

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE Woman with the Past—the Woman with the Present—the Woman with the Future—Which are you?

Which would you choose to be?

The Woman with the Past—what a lot we used to hear about her in the books and see of her in the plays!

She was always slinking in and slinking out again—generally dressed in scarlet and jet, or in black satin and diamonds. And you could tell she had a past the minute you looked at her.

And she was always either deceiving people about it and pretending to be somebody very grand, or moaning about the past and trembling for fear some one would find out about it and drive her out—out into the cold, cruel world—alone!

Out of Focus Now

The Woman with hte Past—we don't hear so much about her these days. Somehow, she doesn't seem to be thinking so much about her past. She's more interested in the present.

Why shouldn't she be?

Can a woman who has made a bad mistake ever forget it?

Have you ever forgotten the time you burned your hand to the bone?

Can't you feel it now—the sting and the hurt and the agony of it?

Do you remember how afraid you were that your hand would be shriveled all out of usefulness—to say nothing of beauty?

How you prayed for a recovery!

Oh, no, you haven't forgotten—you never will—you never can. That's why you hate to see any one careless anywhere near any sort of fire, anywhere, any time and for any reason.

But you don't sit down and think about it morning, noon and night. You don't go and live in a tent somewhere miles away from any sort of fire of any kind—you don't vow to eat uncooked food and forbear even to think of a match for the rest of your natural life.

Not if you're a sane, normal human being.

The Woman with the Future—she is sometimes rather an uncomfortable creature, isn't she?

Always dreaming and hoping, and planning and scheming—never any time to waste on simple little good times that do not lead anywhere in particular. No energy to give to plain, unassuming people who can't help to bring the "future" nearer.

Ambitious and Eager

Ambitious, eager, courageous—oh, yes, we all admire the Woman with the Future! But I wonder how many of us really love her.

The Woman with the Present—she's the woman for me!

Cheery, goon-natured, kindly, making the most of every passing day. Extracting the last drop of happiness and of good out of every hour that hurries by.

Never to busy to see an old friend. Never too much occupied to write a kindly letter to some one forlorn and half-forgotten by the world.

Never too absorbed in her own plans to give a smile and a friendly look to some struggling acquaintance she happens to pass in her daily life.

And, strangely enough, she's often a woman with the Future, too, is the Woman with the Present.

Yes, yes, I think I would choose to be—if you please—the Woman with the Present. She's worth any dozen of the other two.

Ex Libris

"A DOZEN of the best you have" might have been the orders under which Christopher Morley started out to write "Tales From a Rolltop Desk" and he carried out his orders to the last letter.

The work delightfully done and they are surely amusing—and that is saying a good deal. To while away just a little time, for they are fast reading, we don't know of anything new that will give more pleasure for the same amount of time and space involved.

Christopher Morley has done some of the most charmingly whimsical little sketches of New York and Philadelphia—as clever as cartoons—a time here and a line there, but very telling lines.

His ability to write short stories, in this group, of that little band of people who write and publish, is excellent. He has a large following to which this book will add not a few.

Weighing Diamonds

The practice of weighing diamonds by carat began with the decision of the natives in the African diamond mines to measure diamonds taken from the mines by comparing them with the bean of the coral tree, a "quirat" bean being the standard of measurement, after which buyers agreed and fixed the carat at 200 milligrams.

ISCARIOT OR JESUS, WHICH IS JEW?

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

AN anonymous letter is never a happy bit of autobiography.

If the spirit moves you to written comment upon anyone's doings, sayings, or writings, have the courage of your convictions and sign your letter.

Otherwise, the recipient will not know of what you are more ashamed, your opinions or your name.

Lately, there appeared in this column an article, by the present writer, entitled "Henry Ford Might Live Again as a Jew." It was meant to be a satiric suggestion to that pitiable victim of his own fanaticism that there may be something in the Buddhistic doctrine of Karma, so that Ford might "next time" be born as a Jew and be obliged to experience the persecution which he is now manufacturing, as a super-flivver inventor.

In the course of his article, the writer reminded Mr. Ford that, as a good Christian, he was not to forget that Jesus was a Jew, and if he hounded His fellow-Jews he was, in effect, hurting Jesus.

All of which is obvious enough, and was hardly calculated to call forth written comment. And yet, a letter did come—anonymous, alas!—enclosing a clipping of the above-mentioned article and marking with red pencil the reference to Jesus.

At the side of the article were these words, also in red: "Say, Doc, was Judas Iscariot a tow-headed Swede? Please answer."

General Interest

No name being signed and no address added, a personal answer was impossible. Anonymous communications should be ignored. But the question which this one brought suggests a reply that may be of general interest.

Before facing the query of his nameless, homeless, and only modestly courageous correspondent, the writer is moved to speculate whether his questioner is concerned for the good name of Jesus, because of the reference to Him as a Jew and not as a Presbyterian; or whether he is worried about the fate of the flivver-maker, because having failed as a Christian, he might be doomed to rebirth as a suffering Jew.

He need not worry about Ford; because a man to whom history is "bunk" is beyond being convinced that Jesus was a Jew.

And as for Jesus Himself,—He can stand that imputation of terrible fact, seeing that He was content to associate even with Jewish publicans and sinners—and at no cost of dignity or self-respect!

Indeed, even Judas Iscariot was deemed worthy of privileged discipleship and of close companionship!

And now let the unknown interrogator be frankly answered: "No, Judas Iscariot was not a tow-headed Swede." He was a Jew. So was Jesus! No need for controversy on that score.

And George Washington was an American. So was Benedict Arnold! Likewise Abraham Lincoln and his assassin, John Wilkes Booth!

It takes all kinds of men to make up a nation and the human world—saviors and traitors, saints and sinners, the chaste and the prostitute, patriots and cosmopolitans and anonymous folks.

And ninety-nine per cent. of merely average persons—even as you and I.

Query: Which is the true measure of a people—the best or its worst? The self-evident answer would seem to be: Neither! But that is not the just answer.

Proper query: "Judge by yourself, about yourself." Then you will have a clue to the truth. Are you what you seem to be at your worst or at your best? At your best, of course, you will say. And you are right!

The true measure of an individual, of a nation, of mankind, is the best that they have produced, or of which they have shown themselves capable. Spiritual failures—which are the only essentially human values—are thus tested. Your finest flight is the revelation of what you really are.

This you are worth to God!

Not Us to Judge

Thus Jesus is the measure of the religious genius of the Jew. And Buddha of the Hindu. And Confucius of the Chinese. And Emerson of the American.

What these have been and seen, the rest of their people will be and see!

Meanwhile, it is not for any of us to judge p sons or peoples—unless we are capable of judging with a loving heart and an insightful mind.

Love is not blind. Love has X-Ray vision, and can penetrate to qualities and beauties which are hidden from the unseeing eyes of hatred and contempt.

No particular credit accrues to anyone who can appreciate Jesus. But if you can at least refrain from calling a curse upon a Judas or from casting a stone at the woman taken in adultery, you are not far from the Democracy of Love—or the Kingdom of Heaven.

Then, too, you will be able to measure truly—with the test of the best.
